RECORD ROCKET IS FIRED BY U. S.

Scientific Pool Suggested for West

Macmillan, Ike Talks Resumed

WASHINGTON (UP)— Talks between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan resumed today in a possibly more hopeful mood due to a sudden burst of U.S. military achievements including a 1,000-4,000-mile rocket shoot.

Diplomatic sources reported meanwhile, that the two leaders are considering asking other nations to join in pooling scientific military information as a trump card in the East-West race for nuclear and space superiority.

Eisenhower and Macmillan began talks Wednesday night on scientific unity. Their first conference began at 6 p.m. e.d.t. and concluded at 9:30 p.m. There was no announcement of what took place. Further talks were scheduled today.

Close attention is being paid to the war-jittery Middle East and a careful review of Soviet intentions around the globe, as well as the issue of East-West military and scientific supremacy.

May Discuss Red Move

Russia's decision to send one of its top military commanders to take charge of Soviet troops on the Russian-Turkish border, announced Wednesday, was considered likely to come up in the discussions. British diplomats were reported gravely concerned about appointment of Red Army Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky to what previously was deemed a minor border post.

The dramatic firing of the Air Force rocket to 1,000-4,000 miles over the Pacific was almost certain to create a new surge of optimism in the ability of the United States and the West to match or outstrip Russia in the race for space supremacy.

Added to this were other announcements of new U.S. strides in the modern weapons field. These included the successful testing of a 1,500-mile Jupiter missile, disclosure of an atomic depth charge for combatting Soviet submarines and the test firing of a Vanguard missile which eventually will carry a U.S. satellite into space.

Weighing Methods

Britain and the United States are weighing methods of stepping up their exchange of scientific-military information and resources to combat Soviet advances.

Administration officials said Eisenhower is emphasizing two basic points concerning closer scientific cooperation:

1. Russia's advances in the scientific field require greater efforts in the same field by the free world.

2. The administration will ask Congress next session to revise the 1946 Atomic Energy Act to permit

Cops and Robbers in Weird District Chase

A cop-and-robber chase that would be almost unbelievable if seen on television took place in the Charleroi-Monongahela area early this morning.

The weird chase included everything from whistling bullets to a police search through a densely wooded area for two would-be burglars, one of whom was captured and is in serious condition in Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

The escapade started about 3 o'clock this morning when Charleroi Police Lt. William Verno and Patrolman Francis Behrendt were making a routine check in a cruiser in the northern section of downtown Charleroi.

They spotted two men near the Thorofare Supermarket at 12th St and McKean Ave. As they approached the market, the men jumped into a waiting car and took off in the direction of North Charleroi at a fast speed.

Police Give Chase

The police gave chase through North Charleroi and continued the pursuit past Craven Hill on the road to Monongahela, firing bullets at the fleeing car's tires. The bullets missed their target and the car continued roaring down the highway at between 95 and 100 miles per hour.

As the fleeing car attempted to go down steep Monongahela Cemetery hill it went out of control, ripped out several guard rail posts, went over an embankment and then burst into flames.

Washington Twp. Candidate Gets Threatening Calls

A Washington Twp. road supervisor reported to police today that he has received a series of threatening telephone calls warning him to "get out of politics."

Jerry Weiss, incumbent supervisor who will appear as the Republican nominee in the Nov. 5 general election, told police he received 10 calls within an hour yesterday.

All of the calls urged him to quit politics, according to Weiss.

Both he and his family were threatened with bodily injury, Weiss added.

Weiss said he reported the threats to police and the Bell Telephone Co. He said the callers appeared to be both men and women.

Weiss has served for several years as a township supervisor. A registered Democrat, he lost the Democratic nomination in the primary election but won the Republican nod through write-in votes.

Brownell Resigns Post As Attorney General; Rogers Named by Ike

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower's choice of William P. Rogers to succeed Herbert Brownell Jr. as Attorney General portends no change in the Justice Department's firm civil rights policy, informed sources said today.

But the surprise White House announcement had Washington buzzing with speculation as to the possible significance of the shift.

Brownell, who will bow out as the administration's top law enforcement officer around the second week in November, disavowed any political ambitions. He said he will rejoin his former law firm of Lord, Day and Lord of New York City.

Once in private life, however, he would be free to resume his role as former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's political strategist—or his own.

Gained Politically

Brownell has become a political figure in his own right by reason of his close identification with the administration's civil rights bill and enforcement policy—notably sending troops to Little Rock, Ark.

That might tempt him into New York state politics as a candidate for governor or the U.S. Senate.

Rogers, who at 44 will be the youngest member of the Eisenhower cabinet, is a close personal and political friend of Nixon. His presence on the Eisenhower "team" will give Nixon a "friend in court."

Brownell's resignation came with thunderclap surprise to Washington although there has been speculation most of the President's original cabinet would drop out during his second term.

Third To Resign

His departure is the third cabinet resignation during the current presidential term, the others being Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

There are now only four members of the original Eisenhower cabinet left—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks and Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield. There has been speculation Dulles will also retire sometime in the near future, but nothing firm has developed.

Brownell, who held a joint news conference with Rogers after the White House announcement, said he and his successor had worked closely and agreed on major policy decisions including dispatch of troops to Little Rock.

President Eisenhower, in a letter to "Dear Herb," accepted his resignation with "very deep regret" and praised him for his "invaluable assistance" in helping form administration policies as well as his conduct of the Justice Department.

Rehoboth Valley Site Advertised In National Papers

The 200 acre Rehoboth Valley industrial site will be advertised tomorrow in the national edition of The Wall Street Journal and on Sunday in The New York Times.

The industrial development located in Rostraver Twp. will be one of eight locations mentioned in an advertisement sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce.

The ad will ask business and industry to "investigate these excellent Pennsylvania plant locations now."

"Pennsylvania is proud of the calibre and extent of the plant financing and location services offered manufacturers," states the advertisement, which is one in a series designed to attract new industry.

The Rehoboth site was developed by the Monongahela Valley Area Enterprises, Inc., to bring new business to the district.

'Hard' Water Is Plaguing Area Residents

Chemists for the Authority of the Boro of Charleroi have succeeded in reducing the "hardness" of Monessen's water supply to only slightly above normal, it was reported today.

In recent weeks, the water has been much "harder" than usual. This was the indirect result of the summer-long drought which forced the Monongahela River to its lowest level in years.

As a result, additional chemicals were needed to purify the water supply. Recently, the Authority chemists have succeeded in reducing the "hardness" to a point where the water is just about back to normal.

Several city plumbing concerns reported that even "water softeners" were hard-pressed to reduce the "hardness" during the drought period.

Urban's Condition Is 'Satisfactory'

Urban's wife is being held in Fayette County jail in Uniontown.

Resignation of Brownell Good News to Critics

By UNITED PRESS

Resignation of U.S. Atty Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. was welcome news to many of his long-time critics in the South.

"I am encouraged and delighted," commented Georgia Gov. Marvin Griffin. "I do not know the qualifications of his proposed successor, Mr. (William P.) Rogers, but it will have to be an improvement."

(Rogers, who has been serving as Deputy Attorney General, will take the top Justice Department post when Brownell's resignation becomes effective in about two weeks.)

"Brownell's resignation means the principal architect of the Eisenhower reconstruction era has bowed out in the middle of the mess he helped create," was the reaction of Louisiana State Sen. William Rainach.

'Not Unhappy'

South Carolina Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr. said he was "not at all unhappy" about the resignation, but charged it is "merely an attempt to whitewash the use of troops in Little Rock."

"It is a pity he didn't resign earlier," said Georgia Atty Gen. Eugene Cook.

Meanwhile there were these other integration developments:

Missile Is Sent More Than 1,000 Miles into Space

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States has taken man's highest known step yet in the race to the moon — stabbing a rocket an estimated 1,000-4,000 miles or more into space.

Precisely how high the slender multi-stage missile probed into the unknown won't be determined until calculations are completed, possibly Friday. But Air Force scientists believe it soared 1,000 to 4,000 miles or more, easily outdistancing Russia's earth satellite or any other known projectile ever sent aloft by man.

The rocket, it was disclosed Wednesday night, was triggered Monday by the Air Force operation "Farside" from a balloon-supported platform 20 miles high over Eniwetok Atoll in the Pacific to help it escape the earth's atmosphere.

While a considerable feat, experts said today Farside ranks distinctly below Russia's achievement in hurling a satellite into orbit around the globe. Neither does it mean necessarily the United States has leaped in front in the race to develop long-range missiles carrying H-bomb warheads.

Aid To Free World

Perhaps Farside's biggest initial significance is in giving the free world a strong psychological boost toward overcoming Russia's scientific gains apparent in its Sputnik.

U.S. efforts to launch the long-planned Farside rocket apparently were drastically stepped up following the Sputnik launching Oct. 4. It was reported Monday's successful launching was considered so important the Pentagon hoped to have exact data available for Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy to announce personally.

This and other newly-announced U.S. weapons developments were sure to be greeted by President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan as good omens in their talks aimed at blueprinting ways to win the East-West race for scientific-military supremacy.

The Defense Department confirmed Wednesday night, after the Los Angeles Examiner "broke" the story, the launching had taken place Monday.

Data Received Monday

It was expected the rocket would disintegrate along with all its instruments upon reentering the earth's atmosphere. Its fate was not known however. Meanwhile data from its instruments was radioed to earth in coded "telemeter" messages Monday. This is what scientists are now evaluating on the West Coast.

Announcement of results of the evaluation is expected to be made here.

In its terse statement the Defense Department said only that it "confirmed the successful firing Oct. 21. Extensive data was obtained. It is not yet evaluated. We hope it will be ready by noon Friday. We cannot confirm or deny any figures used."

Webster Firemen Burned Up at Ad on Tickets

A group of Webster Volunteer Firemen are really burned up today!

They're "fired up" over a political advertisement which appears on the tickets to their annual stag dinner this Sunday.

One official of the Fire Co. told The Daily Independent today that he plans to raise some real fireworks at the next meeting on Nov. 5.

"This company has never engaged in politics, and certainly no one was authorized to seek a political advertisement," he charged.

Nello Pasquinelli, president of the Webster Firemen, was not available for comment.

The ticket, besides admitting the holder to stag, advised a "straight Democratic" vote in the Nov. 5 general election. Listed are the Democratic candidates for county offices.

The political plug appears on the back of the ticket. The front carries the usual information concerning the stag dinner.

Reportedly the tickets were printed as a compliment of Buck's Garage in Webster.

"You can bet your bottom dollar all of the Democratic politicians will be here Sunday to turn this thing into a political rally," bristled one of the complaining firemen.

Feature of the stag dinner, which will be held at the Webster Fire Hall, is an ox-roast.

Oddly enough, the next meeting of the Fire Dept. will take place on election day.

"We have firemen who belong to both parties and most of them want to know who authorized this political endorsement," the officer said.

He began the one-day tour in Atlantic City, a keystone of GOP support, and ended with the lively, televised demonstration here.

P&LE Submits Objections to Proposed Local Redevelopment

John W. Barriger, president of Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Co., has submitted a written list of objections and recommendations concerning the proposed redevelopment of Monessen, particularly the northeast corner of the City.

He made his remarks in a letter to the Monessen Planning Commission and sent a copy to individual members of City Council. The letter was made public yesterday.

The P&LE head said one feature of the redevelopment plans calls for the extension of Donner Ave. to Manown St. to an intersection with Route 906 about 600 feet east of Monongahela St. He then suggested an alternative proposal which "we believe will better serve the needs of the community as well as our own."

The proposed redevelopment plans call for an almost straight road from Donner Ave. to connect with Route 906 while P&LE suggest a diagonal type road near Schoonmaker ave.

Barriger believes the alternative would not only provide better access to Monessen Highway (formerly Tyrol Blvd.) and to Route 906, but would also leave "more and better land available for industrial development adjacent to our railroad."

The president said land suitable for industrial development is "extremely limited in Monessen and it is to the mutual interest of both the community and the railroad that industrial sites be preserved, and if possible improved, in any development plan."

Continuing, the letter said:

"We suggest that Manown St. be extended and partly relocated and that Monongahela St. be vacated. Manown St. is not paved north of Donner Ave. Relocating and paving it would provide a new entry to the plant of Page Steel and Wire, and permit the abandonment of Monongahela St., both north and south of the P&LE tracks.

"Such abandonment would eliminate the interference that now occurs between trucks crossing over Monongahela St. and P&LE switching and would permit Page Steel and Wire to expand into an area now blocked off by the street. This expansion will be possible if the P&LE can reduce the area now required for its local yard services. While we cannot speak for Page Steel and Wire, we feel that this company would be pleased to approve relocation of its truck entrance to Manown St. and vacating of Monongahela St.

"Your proposal calls for eventually moving a large segment of Donner Ave. to a location adjacent to the P&LE tracks. We wish to go on record as opposing such a move. We believe the land between the P&LE and Donner Ave. from Manown to 12th streets should be zoned for light industry. Industries in this location would have adequate railroad and street service. It appears to us that this area is much more desirable for light industry than the Rehoboth Church area. Donner Ave. sites

Civic Music Drive Closes on Saturday

The 1957-58 membership campaign of the Monessen Belle-Vernon Civic Music Association will definitely close at 4 p.m. on Saturday, it was announced today.

Mrs. Paul Latkanich, Association president, said that absolutely no memberships will be accepted after the deadline.

However she reminded that there are still two full days to join the organization. Interested persons may sign up at Association headquarters in Rosenson's Furniture Store, Sixth St. and Donner Ave.

Anyone may join for the upcoming season. Only members will be admitted to the four scheduled concerts, since no tickets are sold to individual concerts.

Membership for adults is $6, while the student fee is $3.

Mrs. Latkanich said that all workers must submit their reports before the deadline on Saturday.

According to James Browning, regional director of Civic Concert Service's New York headquarters, many of the most popular artists are being considered for the coming series of concerts.

Last season's series included the Vienna String Symphony, the Singing Boys of Norway, Claramae Turner, star of the movie, "Carousel", and popular pianist, Stan Freeman.

Other recent seasons have highlighted appearances of Monessen's own Blanche Thebom, the Pittsburgh Symphonetta, the Vienna Choir Boys, the American Piano Trio, Immortal Musicals, and others.

"Despite rising prices in all other phases of the entertainment world, the price for membership in Civic Music locally, remains the same since the first year," said Browning, who assumes the position of associate manager of the Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra on Nov. 1.

He stated that membership secured in the Monessen-Belle Vernon Association entitle the holder to attend Civic Music events at any other Civic Music Associations throughout the country, at no additional cost. Further information may be secured by calling headquarters numbers MU 4-5773 and MU 4-5774.

Cancer Group Dissolves

The Westmoreland County Cancer Society, which for years refused to affiliate with the American Cancer Society, has dissolved, it was learned today.

As a result, the county group will not be among the red feather agencies participating in the 1957-58 Community Fund campaign in Monessen.

Last year the County Cancer Society was allocated $1,302 as its share from the Community Fund.

Since then, the organization has been dissolved, according to information received by officials of the Community Fund.

Reportedly, the county organization disbanded "reluctantly." One former official told The Daily Independent that "pressure" led to the decision.

"We'd rather forget the whole thing and we don't want to reopen old wounds," said the official, who askid not to be indentified.

County Withdraws

The county organization withdrew from the American Cancer Society many years ago, claiming that little of the money collected in the county for cancer patients was actually being used here.

In the past, the County Society participated in Community Fund drives and spent all of its money in the district where it was collected. All workers in the county group contributed their services.

In contrast, the American Cancer Society has refused to take part in united fund drives, preferring to promote its own fund-raising campaigns. The Society employs paid personnel and points out that much of the money collected is used for cancer research.

Presumably the American Cancer Society will now take over at least some of the services formerly offered by the county group.

In disbanding, the county organization decided against giving its existing funds to the American Cancer Society. Instead, representatives in each district will disperse money for the use of local cancer patients.

Mrs. C. M. Llewellyn is in charge of the Monessen funds. She said a "considerable" amount still remains and will be used for the benefit of local cancer patients.

Thus the county group will continue to offer some services even though the organization has been formally dissolved. The Westmoreland Society also purchased cancer-detecting equipment which is now in use at the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

4-H Youths Compete At Livestock Show

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Jack Decker, 17, 4-H Club member from Centre Hall RD 1, Centre County, took the grand championship in steers Wednesday at the 25th Pittsburgh Junior Livestock Show at Herrs Island stockyards.

Decker showed a purebred Angus weighing 1,175 pounds and named "Shorty." The animal, along with 98 other steers and 26 pens of lambs in the show was to be sold at auction this afternoon.

The reserve grand championship went to Daniel Kentsler, 16, 4-H Club member from Baden RD 1, Beaver County, for his 930-pound purebred Hereford, "Spades."

Decker was first in the Angus heavyweight class and took the Angus breed championship, with Don Billington Jr., of Fairmount City, Clarion County, taking the Angus reserve breed honors.

Kentsler, who also was reserve grand champion at last year's show, was first in the Hereford medium class and took the Hereford breed title. Donald Wiltrout, Greensburg RD 4, was Hereford reserve champion.

The Shorthorn breed championship went to Susie McChesney, New Alexandria RD 2, Westmoreland County, and the reserve breed championship to Arthur Moore, Portersville, Butler County.

Southdowns took all but one of the top honors in sheep. Samuel H. Black, 17, Nineveh, Greene County, had the grand championship pen and David Hamilton, 15, Washington RD 3, Washington County, the grand championship individual, both Southdowns. Charles Andrew, 10, Nineveh, had the reserve grand champion pen, also Southdowns, while the reserve grand champion individual title went to Ronald Snee, 15, Amity RD 1, Washington County, for a Hampshire.

Black is a Future Farmers of America member. All other winners were 4-H Club members.

Christian Dior, Famed Fashion Designer, Dies

MONTECATINI TERME, Italy (UP)— Christian Dior, the mild mannered fashion czar whose merest whim could change hemlines for ten million women died of a heart attack shortly before midnight Wednesday night.

The 52-year-old bachelor rose to his greatest fame shortly after the war when he unveiled the long-skirted "new look" that substituted what he called the "peacetime grace and charm of a woman in a long skirt" for the knee-length dresses of World War II.

He remained at the top of the rarefied world of "haute couture"—the high style that made Paris synonomous with fashion. He did it with succeeding "A" looks, "H" looks and this year's new "Sack look" which puts women in a formless, beltless garment that also is known as the "Gunnysack look."

Dior was visiting this famed spa near Pisa with four men friends and was stricken shortly after dinner. He returned to his room at the luxurious Hotel De La Paix and died a few minutes before midnight.

The success of his dictates to women reportedly brought him a seven million dollar annual business and a 75,000 annual income.

have rail transportation, utility and City facilities while the Reboboth Church area does not have facilities, and will provide no tax revenue for the City.

"Any land along Donner Ave. from which buildings are removed could be utilized, temporarily, to relieve the acute parking problems of Monessen. Eventually, buildings for light industries and warehouses constructed there could provide rooftop parking without limiting the economic productivity of the area. Perhaps a local parking authority, financed through parking revenues, might take a major role in Monessen's industrial development.

"We have noted certain suggestions that the new sewage disposal plant be placed south of our tracks in an area now partly used for Sheppler Yard. This does not meet with our approval because it would occupy valuable industrial property that a sewage plant does not need and would deprive our railroad of potential business and would take potential employment from the community.

"Instead, we suggest that the disposal plant be located within an area in the vicinity of the proposed extension of Donner Ave. Regardless of whether our suggestion or the proposed plan is adopted, approximately 100,000 square feet would be available in an area not adjacent to the P&LE. Such a location would not be undesirable, since modern sewage disposal plants, of which there are a number in this vicinity, can be made odorless and attractive, with a park-like appearance.

"We feel obliged to say in conclusion that in our judgment efforts to carry out the proposed plan for moving Donner Ave. will not only destroy real estate values, but will effectively prevent the very redevelopment of the City which is hoped for by the Planning Commission."

Meanwhile, Monongahela firemen were called to the burning car. While they were fighting the blaze, giant spotlights from fire trucks played on the wooded section.

However, at 8 o'clock this morning Donora police captured one of the men, Alvin Bostic, 40, 519 Junilla St., Pittsburgh, injured and staggering on a Donora street.

Bostic, bleeding profusely from multiple injuries received when the car crashed, was taken to the hospital where at noon today he was reported "so busted up" that it was impossible to question him.

Campaign Briefs—

Dent Injects 'Sputnik' Into County Campaign

State Senator John H. Dent, Jeannette Democrat, has injected "sputnik" into the Westmoreland County political campaign.

Speaking before a political rally of "Italian-American" leaders at Twin Coaches on Tuesday, Dent observed:

"It is shameful that we have fallen behind in this scientific race. While the Republicans are putting around down here, the Communists are sputting around up there. Why? Because of indifference, bickering and jealousies in our government leadership, with emphasis on profits and not performance."

Dent then called on a favorite scapegoat of his. "I can certainly see shades of Hoover in our time," he remarked.

"The first mass mortage sheriff sale since the depression was held in Greensburg on Oct. 11, 1957." Dent said. "Twenty six homes and three lots were taken by foreclosure of a Pittsburgh bank. This was the Hoover prosperity in 1929 and it is Republican prosperity in 1957."

Dent said the cost of living has gone up "15 straight months under this so-called Republican prosperity."

He then stated that these were the "issues of the campaign" and urged the election of the straight Democratic ticket in the county.

Weiss Likes Job

"I'd like to keep the job!"

So spoke Judge David H. Weiss, Monessen, at a Democratic rally in New Kensington earlier in the week.

Being judge "is a thrilling experience," said Weiss.

The Monessen jurist also had some nice words for his fellow Democratic candidates in the race for judge of the Westmoreland Court of Common Pleas.

Among other things, Judge Weiss said:

"There are no bluebloods among our candidates for the judiciary."

Weiss was nominated for judge last August by the Westmoreland County Democratic committee. He was appointed to the office by Governor George M. Leader shortly after nominated.

Docket Up to Date

Judge Edward G. Bauer told a Democratic political rally in New Kensington this week that his campaigning hasn't interfered with his judicial duties.

According to Judge Bauer, the docket of the Westmoreland Court is up to date.

The judge also "defied anyone to show where political bias has interfered with the administration of justice in the court of Westmoreland county."

Soviets Hold Nuclear Maneuvers in Mideast

By UNITED PRESS

The Soviet newspaper Zarya Vostok said today the Soviet army recently held maneuvers with nuclear weapons near the Soviet-Turkish border.

The disclosure came one day after Russia reported that Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, one of its top military leaders, had been named commander of Soviet forces opposite Turkey and Iran.

President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan were reported giving close attention to the Rokossovsky appointment which brought concern in a number of Western capitals.

Increase Strength

Maj. Gen. D. Ivashchenke said in the Zarya Vostok article today the overall strength of the Soviet army had been increased by successful tests of an intercontinental ballistics missile, establishment of a jet air force and complete mechanization.

Ivashchenke also referred to forces in the Trans-Caucasian Military District (which fronts on the Iranian and Turkish borders.)

He hailed them for their "tirelessly perfect fighting skill in maneuvers and tactical studies" and said they "study military art in complicated conditions utilizing atomic weapons and other new means of warfare."

To Visit Russia

At the same time it was announced in Cairo that Maj. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, Egypt's war minister and joint commander-in-chief of the Egyptian-Syrian-Jordanian defense will visit the Soviet Union next week. The invitation came several months ago.

The semi-official Middle East News Agency reported from Damascus today that air raid tests were being carried out at Homs. Syria's chief of staff charged Wednesday that U.S. Air Force planes were invading Syrian air space and flying over Homs.

A dispatch from Jerusalem said Jordan now fears that Russia will take over that country following its triumph in Syria. The dispatch quoted Western observers arriving from Arab Jerusalem.

Keystone Shortway Surveys Are Being Conducted by Two Firms

HARRISBURG (UP)—A state Highways Department official said today the surveying of the route of the 300 million dollar Keystone Shortway is proceeding on schedule and reports on the study will be ready by the January target date.

Chief Engineer Robert A. Farley said the two private consulting firms conducting the location surveys have been aided by the generally fair weather and expect to have their reports to the department ready "after the first of the year."

The two firms are studying the exact location of the east and west section of the proposed 291-mile superhighway across the northern part of the Commonwealth between Stroudsburg and Sharon.

Michael Baker, Jr. Inc., Rochester, Pa., is surveying for the placement of the road between the Ohio border and Brookville in Jefferson County, while the Buchart Engineering Corp., York, is mapping the route between Stroudsburg and White Deer on the west bank of the Susquehanna River in Union County.

Department engineers will plan the center section of the Shortway between White Deer and Brookville.

Officials predict that construction on the giant interstate project with 90 per cent to be financed by the federal government, may begin either late next year or in 1959, with the completion date set for 1972.

The state's cost in the project is set at about 30 million dollars.

The Shortway also figured in a controversy on the proposed location of another new federal interstate highway to join the Scranton and Harrisburg areas through central Pennsylvania.

Highways Secretary Lewis M. Stevens, in a meeting Wednesday with representatives of the "Original Route 11 Association," promised to determine whether consulting engineers had considered the feasibility of making a connection with the Shortway near White Deer which would serve the Harrisburg area.

The Route 11 group seeks to have the Scranton-Harrisburg superhighway constructed along the line of the present Route 11 on the west side of the Susquehanna River, rather than the present route now planned by the department on the east side of the river near Ashland.

Paul R. Everly, Bloomsburg newspaper publisher and president of the association, told Stevens "eventually the Harrisburg area must have a connection with the Shortway."

While the present department plans would have the Shortway connect with the Scranton-Harrisburg road between Bloomsburg and Berwick, Everly said, construction of the Scranton throughway on the line of Route 11 would necessitate only a 10-15 mile connection with the Shortway from near White Deer.

Stevens said the department will check with its consultants to determine whether the question of a connection with the Shortway was taken into consideration in recommending the route be located east of the river.

Highway Department officials contend the route chosen by them was recommended by the consulting firm of Gannett, Fleming, Corddry & Carpenter, after a study of 14 suggested routes.

The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads has already approved the route from Binghamton, N. Y., through the Scranton area, to a point near Ashland. As part of the federal interstate system, 90 per cent of the construction cost will be paid with federal funds.

At the same time, Everly asked that the department hold a public hearing on the controversy in Harrisburg.

Such hearings, required by federal law regulating the federal aid subsidies for road building, are usually held in one of the major cities which would be affected by the proposed construction.

Everly, however, asked that the hearing be held in Harrisburg on what he termed "neutral ground," rather than in the area affected.

Although the federal agency has already approved the construction of the Scranton-Harrisburg route east of the Susquehanna, protests may result in another review by the bureau.

Guatemala Seized by Junta

Three-man Military In Charge

GUATEMALA CITY (UP)— A three-man military junta seized control of Guatemala today.

The junta was headed by Col. Oscar Mendoza Azurdia, with Cols. Gonzalo Yurrita Novoa and Roberto Lorenzana as the other members.

The decision to dissolve the provisional government of President Luis Arturo Gonzalez Lopez was made after several hours of discussion at army high command headquarters. The junta then took over the government at 3 a.m.

Col. Mendoza, (the head of the ruling junta, was undersecretary of national defense.

The move by the military came after riotous crowds threatened to turn the streets of Guatemala into a battleground.

Mob Action

Shortly before the army acted, mobs broke up an emergency session of Congress which was called Wednesday night to act on a move by President Gonzalez to throw out the results of last Sunday's disputed elections.

The mob action prevented Congress from acting on the provisional government's resolution.

Deputies were trapped within the chamber by the demonstrators who showed no inclination of leaving in spite of the 9 p.m. curfew imposed under the state of siege.

At least four persons were reported killed in two days of clashes between police and supporters of presidential candidate Gen. Miguel Idigoras Fuentes since Monday.

Idigoras had charged the elections, in which government candidate Miguel Ortiz Passarelli claimed victory, were "fraudulent" and urged his followers to demonstrate until the elections were declared invalid.

Acting President Luis Arturo Gonzalez Lopez sent the resolution to congress shortly after Defense Minister Col. Juan Francisco Oliva requested the action.

Thousands of persons marched on congress to demand the deputies approve the resolution and also lift the 30-day state of siege imposed Tuesday.

The elections Sunday were to choose the successor to President Carlos Castillo Armas, adamant anti-Communist who was assassinated last June by an allegedly Communist member of the palace guard.

Medical Prize Is Awarded

STOCKHOLM (UP)—Dr. Daniel Bovet, a Swiss-Italian pharmacologist, was awarded the 1957 Nobel Prize for Medicine today for his work in discovering anti-histamine drugs and for harnessing the dangerous Indian poison curare for medical use.

Medical sources said the 50-year-old Bovet was the choice of the awarding body ahead of a number of prominent scientists including Dr. Jonas Salk who developed the world famous Salk polio vaccine.

Bovet was known best for his work with curare but he also was a leading member of the group of researchers who discovered the anti-histamines and thus opened the way to a full scale battle against allergies.

The Nobel medical prize carries with it a cash award of 209,000 crowns ($40,000). Winners of this and the prizes for literature, physics and chemistry will receive the awards from King Gustaf Adolf on Dec. 10, anniversary of the death of Alfred Nobel who willed his vast fortune to the creation of the prizes.

The Peace Prize winner, former Canadian Foreign Minister Lester Pearson, will receive his award from King Olav of Norway the same day.

The physics and chemistry awards will be announced next Thursday.

French existentialist author Albert Camus won the literature prize.

Milk Strike Threat In New York City

NEW YORK (UP)—Negotiators make a last-ditch effort today to head off a threatened milk drivers strike that would cut off the flow of milk to an estimated 14 million persons in the metropolitan area.

The strike is set for 4 p.m., e.d.t.

Both sides were reported far apart as they prepared to resume negotiations this morning. While there was little hope of reaching agreement before the deadline, officials were optimistic that representatives of the Teamsters Union and the employers would agree to an extension of the old contract.

Union officials have promised that in the event of a strike, about 400,000 quarts of milk will be delivered daily to schools, hospitals, various institutions and the armed forces. Most retail outlets reported their supplies today were plentiful.

Federal, state and city mediators were standing by. However, the union has maintained their help was not needed.

A walkout would affect 12,000 drivers, members of five Teamster unions, who deliver milk in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

The drivers were seeking pay increases ranging from 10 to 15 dollars a week, plus a reduction in the work week from 40 to 35 hours along with improved fringe benefits.

Current wages range from $90.70 per week for inside workers to $102.70 for drivers.

PRR President Says Lines 'Over Regulated'

HARRISBURG (UP)—Pennsylvania Railroad President James M. Symes says more understanding is needed by Congress and state Legislatures if railroads are to continue to grow with the nation's economy.

Symes said most problems facing railroads would have to be dealt with through legislation because the lines were "over regulated."

"We need more freedom in pricing our product," he said at a news conference here Wednesday.

The PRR president pointed out that traffic volume for this quarter would be off 7 per cent, while most experts had predicted it would climb. Symes said operating costs have steadily climbed and passenger revenue dropped while increased rates and fares do not sufficiently cover the losses.

Here on the last leg of a two-day inspection tour of PRR facilities between Philadelphia and Akron, Ohio, Symes also commented on the state's business "climate." He said he had not changed his mind "completely" that Pennsylvania taxes were keeping industry out of the state, but added that a "step in the right direction" had been made to solve the problem.

Cites Tax Relief

Symes said the Legislature's action in allowing the manufacturers' exemption to the capital stock tax to go into effect Jan. 1 would help, but added "Pennsylvania is still far out of line" in its tax structure where business is concerned. He declined to elaborate on what additional relief was needed.

He also reserved comment on a recent court ruling against eastern railroads and a New York public relations firm in a $250 million dollar antitrust suit brought by trucking firms.

"If I had a comment it would not be fit to print," Symes quipped. He said statements would be made when the railroads received the court order and drafted their next move.

On other topics, Symes made these comments:

—There will be some additional car reductions on the line by consolidating trains.

—The PRR anticipates the return to work of 4,000 workers recently furloughed, but not in the immediate future.

—Railroads must adjust themselves to the fact that the airlines have taken over the long distance passenger hauls and the automobile is preferred for short trips. The lines must concentrate on the middle distance traveler.

Leader Blasts Government for Housing Action

ST. LOUIS (UP)—George Leader, governor of Pennsylvania said here Wednesday night the government has not learned how to combine stable living costs with economic expansion.

Leader, a Democrat, said before the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment officials, that one of the looming issues of our public affairs is the increase in living costs and the slowing down of expansion.

The governor also said the people of the U.S. have consistently underestimated the determination, the ability and the capacity for scientific achievement of the Soviets. He said he hopes the launching of the earth satellite by the Russians will be enough of a shock to the American people to end cutbacks and retreats as well as complacency.

Clark Denies Calling 'Draft' Of Dilworth

BUTLER, Pa. (UP)—Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) denied today he ever said he would "draft" Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth to run for governor on the Democratic ticket next year.

The statement was attributed to Clark in New Castle, where he spoke Wednesday.

Today, Clark issued this statement:

"As everyone must know, I am in no position to draft anybody for anything.

"Together with a number of other Pennsylvania Democratic leaders I believe Dick Dilworth would make our strongest candidate for governor in 1958. I hope we can persuade him to make the run.

"The final decision, of course, will be his, not ours."

Clark addressed a Butler County Democratic rally here Wednesday night.

Home Remedies Get Workout in Epidemic

The rock 'n roll music craze is slowly but surely being replaced by the rock 'n rye whiskey craze in Monessen — probably because of the flu-type epidemic that is playing havoc with individuals, schools, drug stores, etc.

District state liquor stores, according to a survey by The Daily Independent, report they are selling out of rock 'n rye whiskey because of the unusually heavy demand for the old-fashioned whiskey mix, which in the old days was commonly used to cure colds, broken legs, split finger nails or what-have-you.

Rock 'n rye, a mixture of rock candy and rye whiskey, isn't the only liquor in demand. Liquor store officials also report heavy sales of whiskey-fruit concoctions, such as apricot, apple or peach brandy — also popular in the old days for treating anything from a sneeze to a broken back.

A clerk at the Monessen liquor store reported the presence of persons who, from their requests, have had little or no dealings in purchasing spiriti fermenti. These customers sometimes just ask for whiskey and have no knowledge at all of brand named or what stores doing a landslide business kind of whiskey they should buy.

Liquor stores aren't the only because of the current sickness wave. Druggists report they are being overwhelmed for medicines of all types.

One local druggist reported putting in an emergency order for stock-replacement and then telephoned for repeat orders even before the first arrived.

Druggists report the biggest temporary shortage at present is in anti-biotics, which were in demand when the epidemic first broke out.

In addition to prescription drugs, such items as aspirins and similar substances have been in unusual demand. Stores, too, have had a run on cough medicines of all types.

Druggists also report heavy demands for vaporizers and new spraypackages, taking the place of atomizers as the public has been forced to fight various upper respiratory ailments.

Large Class to Be Initiated By Elks Lodge

One of the largest initiation classes of Monessen Elks Lodge 773 will be inducted tomorrow night.

The initiation of the 37-man class will be held in conjunction with a visit by District Deputy W. Franklin Westcoat, past exalted ruler of McKeesport Lodge. Westcoat and members of his staff will inspect the lodge and witness and appraise the initiation ceremonies.

Elk members are reminded of the change in initiation meeting procedure for tomorrow night. Instead of eating after the ceremonies as was customary, members will be served a roast beef dinner at 6:30 p. m. in the grille room. Dinner will be preceded by a cocktail hour. Initiation will take place at approximately 8 p. m. or immediately after the new candidates have an indoctrination session.

Local Elk officers will make up the initiation team.

Asian Flu Death Toll Called 'Not Alarming'

WASHINGTON (UP)—Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney believes the death toll from Asian flu complications is "not alarming."

Up to now, he said, it is "less than the anticipated" two-tenths of one per cent of those afflicted with the disease.

But Burney said his advisory committee on influenza has recommended that Asian flu vaccine producers double the potency of the vaccine by Dec. 1 and that the chronically ill be moved to first in line for shots to hold down the mortality rate.

Priority For Low Risks

He listed the low risk groups who should receive shots on priority as persons with arrested tuberculosis, heart trouble, other chronic diseases and expectant mothers. Burney disclosed the committee's recommendations Wednesday.

The surgeon general said studies have shown the current vaccine is about 50 per cent effective. Earlier the government had hoped the vaccine might be 70 per cent effective.

Burney said the widespread epidemic, predicted for late fall or early winter, had come a "little earlier" than expected. He said the "localized outbreaks," some of them epidemic proportions, "will continue and might increase" in the next eight or ten weeks.

Discussed Death Toll

Burney said the death toll from Asian flu, flu-like diseases, and resulting complications was discussed at the meeting, particularly the 100 deaths in New York City. He said 60 per cent of those deaths were among persons over 50.

In other parts of the country the highest mortality rate has been reported among children, he said.

Burney said that "undoubtedly the vaccine has definitely prevented a number of influenza cases and it has lowered the mortality rate in this country."

Library a Do-It-Ourselves Project

THE PEOPLE of Monessen have more than one reason to be proud of the manner in which they are undertaking to provide the community with adequate public library service. But one of the better reasons, in our opinion, is that they are meeting this need entirely from their own local resources.

A great many public libraries have been established and are maintained to a considerable extent from private philanthropies. Some wealthy individual thinks the town ought to have a library or a better library and proceeds to make the funds available — like that. Andrew Carnegie, of course, is the prime example.

But Monessen's library, in its present form under semi-private auspices and in the contemplated new development under the city government, has been pretty much a do-it-ourselves affair. There have been a few philanthropic gifts from time to time, and they are always welcome and helpful. But in the main the library sprung from a general feeling among the citizenry that such a public service was needed. And ways have been found, through modest appropriations of tax funds, through allocations from the Community Fund, through small annual subscriptions from industries and individuals having a particular interest, to provide the service on at least some small scale.

Now it is proposed to make the library a purely municipal function, using the powers of government to do efficiently and on an adequate scale what semi-private efforts have had to struggle to provide on a small scale.

This idea is being submitted to the people themselves in the form of a bond issue at the Nov. 5 election, now less than two weeks away. The voters are asked to approve a $200,000 bond issue, the proceeds to be used to construct a new library building designed especially for the purpose. The city government will then erect the building and operate the library.

* * *

THIS ALSO is the do-it-ourselves approach, the community using only its own local resources to provide something in the way of culture and progress which the people themselves have directly decided is desirable and necessary.

We do not mean to be disdainful of philanthropy. It plays an admirable and useful role in this country. And we wish Monessen could have more of it.

But there is much to be said, it seems to us, for distributing the burden of meeting community needs and ambitions among the people themselves. And that is what we shall be doing on Nov. 5 in giving our approval to the bond issue.

In our opinion this is one of the proudest, most desirable steps the city has ever taken through its municipal government, and we hope the vote will be overwhelmingly favorable.

A Start on Pay TV

BEGINNING next spring some sections of the country will have an opportunity to try pay-as-you-see television. The object of the system will be to make it possible for viewers to pay directly for television entertainment or educational programs which they consider worthwhile but which for various reasons are not produced as "free" programs associated with advertised products.

The feeling has been widely held that television in some respects fails to realize its full potential as a communication medium, that many people would gladly pay a price to see higher quality television programs than to accept free the bulk of the trash that comes to them via their screens under the present arrangement.

The Federal Communications Commission has now laid down rules for a three-year trial of pay-as-you-see television. The action is welcome as a start, but it is open to some question as to whether the test will be a fair determination of the market for pay TV.

Under the FCC rules only 15 subscription stations can be put into operation in the entire United States during the three-year period. Only cities which have at least four first-class channels will be permitted the new system. Also, although there are presently five pay systems approved, no one of the five may be tried in more than three cities.

The FCC apparently intends to maintain in large volume the "free" telecasts now on the air. It apparently intends also to keep the more affluent companies from dominating the field to the exclusion of systems which might be just as effective although less well financed.

It would have been desirable perhaps if the FCC had come up with rules that permitted a wider sample. Pittsburgh, for example, will not have an opportunity to try pay TV unless the city gets new stations or unless the FCC rules are modified. Only a limited number then of the larger cities will get a crack at pay TV. While this is a beginning, it will not necessarily indicate what public support exists for the system.

Prince Philip Really Knew His Onions

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — With the Queen and her Prince back in England, the nation's Capital has settled down to the problems of Syria, sputnik, and red tape. Still buzzing through social Washington are tales of the royal couple, especially Prince Philip's amazing memory.

Mr. Pearson

As he stood in the reception line at the British Embassy garden party, greeting 2,000 guests, he asked casual questions about where guests came from, what they did.

"What do you do?" he asked Peter Strauss, son of Nathan Strauss, Housing Commissioner, during the New Deal.

"I work for the ILO," replied Strauss.

Probably not more than half a dozen people among the 2,000 who passed through the line would have known that ILO stood for International Labor Office; nor would have known where its offices were nor its head. But the Prince knew.

"Do you work in Geneva or Washington?" he asked, referring to the ILO's two chief offices.

"In Geneva."

"Then you must work for Morse," observed Prince Philip, referring to David Morse, head of the International Labor Office.

Fear USA-USSR Alliance

One reason for Prime Minister MacMillan's anxiety to confer with President Eisenhower immediately rather than wait until next winter was to head off an Eisenhower conference with Marshal Zhukov.

An Eisenhower-Zhukov conference, the British fear, might pave the way for a sort of American-Russian understanding regarding various parts of the world, which would leave the other NATO allies out in the cold.

This spectre of a close Russian-American understanding has hung over the British ever since the war years, has sometimes given them the diplomatic heebie jeebies. It began during the war when Stalin proposed to Churchill and Roosevelt that there be a division of the Balkans: Britain having a sphere of influence over Greece and Yugoslavia, Russia taking Bulgaria and Rumania. Significantly, Russia has now bitten off exactly the same two countries Stalin wanted — Bulgaria and Rumania.

Also during the war, Stalin proposed that Russia take a sphere of influence over Asia; the United States over all Latin America. Roosevelt said no. The Kremlin however, has proceeded to bring a good slice of Asia under its Red wing, anyway.

Latterly, repeated noises have been coming out of Moscow, suggesting that the USA and USSR could decide the world's problems if they operated face-to-face.

This was suggested during last summer's disarmament talks; again more pointedly during the worsening Near East crisis.

So far Secretary Dulles has spurned Moscow's overtures. Some of his advisers, however, plus many American military men, think the United States might make real strides for peace by talking to Russia direct — without deserting our allies.

Absent Ambassador

Congressman John Blatnik of Minnesota came back from Yugoslavia the other day where he found that, despite momentous events, the United States lacked either an ambassador or a No. 2 man on the job.

The Ambassador, Jimmie Riddleberger, has been in Washington, sitting on a board to decide on the promotion of career diplomats. The Counsel of Embassy, Norris Chipman, recently died.

In the interim, Tito had a vitally important visit from Marshal Zhukov, commander of the Red Army and the man who will probably succeed Khrushchev. No top U.S. diplomats were on hand to report back to Washington.

Meanwhile, also Yugoslavia decided to recognize East Germany, thereby causing West Germany to break diplomatic relations. No American ambassador was on deck in Belgrade to make Tito realize the consequences.

Blatnik found out from his own sources that Tito was at his hunting lodge preparing an important statement. The undermanned Embassy assured him, however, that Tito was simply hunting.

It turned out that the Congressman, who had been in the country only a few days, was better informed than the American Embassy. Shortly thereafter, Tito released an important statement declaring Yugoslavia's intention to recognize East Germany.

Alliance Is A Full Time Job

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The Queen's visit to Washington has, as everyone knows, been not only a popular success but it has provided the occasion for the President to show his own interest in the alliance. It was, of course, a mere coincidence that the date of the visit, which was fixed long ago, happened to fall so soon after the launching of the Sputnik. But the coincidence must have had much to do with the prompt and apparently rather sudden agreement on an immediate visit to Washington by the Prime Minister.

Mr. Lippmann

All this was reflected in the President's toast to the Queen at the White House dinner in which he called for close cooperation within the NATO alliance. This would not have been said, at least not have been said so fervently, were it not for the dismay and embarrassment of the Sputnik affair.

There is a question which hangs over the talks that are to be held this week between Mr. Macmillan and Mr. Eisenhower. It is not whether "the free world's assets" are as great as the President says they are. Undoubtedly the "assets," as well as the science, the technology and the productive capacity of the non-Communist world are very great indeed. Nor is it the question whether it would be useful and desirable to cooperate in research and development. It is idiotic not to cooperate in research and development. The question is whether the President and the Prime Minister are able and willing to give the time and the energy which it takes to bring about and to keep moving such cooperation among two or more countries.

Knew First Hand

Both of them have known at first hand during the World War what it took to keep working together the two bureaucracies, the two military establishments, the politicians, the scientists, the businessmen and the masses of the people on the two sides of the Atlantic. It took, to put it briefly, a Churchill and a Roosevelt, in a close and continual contact, each with an eye on every important undertaking, both working long hours every day of every week. They did this, too, in a time of desperate war when the sense of urgency was strong in most men.

The crucial point, it seems to me, is that a true cooperation of the kind the President was talking about in his toast to the Queen, depends entirely on the heads of the governments. The decision to cooperate cannot be made by the heads of the governments and the carrying out of the decision delegated to committees and joint boards. There have, of course, to be committees and joint boards. But unless those involved feel, as did the members of the war-time agencies, the brooding presence of impatient men like Churchill and Roosevelt, they will drift into the doldrums or become snarled up with jealousies.

And so, when the Prime Minister and the President part after their meeting in Washington, the question will be how deeply is each of them engaged personally to watch over and to drive forward the big projects they will no doubt decide upon. If the answer to this question is negative or doubtful, we shall have to infer that the profound significance of the Soviet achievement has not been understood in the highest places, that the proposal to pool our resources and our talents is not a seriously considered project but a device in public relations to quiet popular dismay.

Egyptian Efforts To Help Hitler Related in Book

By UNITED PRESS

Egyptian efforts to help Hitler win World War II and to thwart America's "imperialistic economy" in the Middle East are related in a book by Col Anwar El Sadat, one of Gamal Abdel Nasser's "young officer" revolutionary group, now editor of the Egyptian government newspaper Al Gomhouriya.

The book "Revolt on the Nile" (John Day), includes a forward by President Nasser praising the author's leading role in the 1952 revolution and asserting that "in their newfound freedom the Egyptian people have found self-respect."

Much of the book is devoted to secret efforts by the young officers to help the German war effort as well as to overthrow King Farouk. Of one unsuccessful effort, Sadat wrote:

"I still think that if ill luck had not so dogged our enterprise, we might have struck a quick blow at the British, joined forces with the Axis and changed the course of events.

"The imperialist economy of the United States came to the assistance of European imperialism in Palestine. . . .American ambition had been roused by the war. . . . they set up the state of Israel in the hope of gaining a foothold in the Middle East, astride one of the world's trade routes, where they could keep an eye on the Russian colossus. . . ."

King Saud's Position Improved as Mediator

By CHARLES M. McCANN

The Turkish-Syrian tension has strengthened King Saud's position as the chief moderating influence in the Arab world.

From the beginning of the dangerous situation which developed when Syria charged Turkey with plotting aggression, the Saudi Arabian monarch has worked untiringly to prevent an explosion.

Saud has conferred with the leaders of Turkey and of Arab countries.

Finally, he offered personally to act as mediator between Turkey and Syria.

The big contribution of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, who likes to fancy himself as the No. 1 Arab leader, was to send Egyptian troops and warships to Syria at the most serious stage of the dispute.

Offered To Fight All

Syria's pro-Russian leaders have breathed fire and offered to take on all comers — presumably including the United States, which was supposed to be in the alleged plot—in event of war.

The pitiful record of both the Syrian and the Egyptian armies in the Arab-Israeli war, and in last year's Israeli invasion of Egypt, did not seem to make a fight to the death likely against Turkey's powerful, tough army of 500,000 men.

Soviet Russia, of course, was a prime contributor to the tension and helped build it up stage by stage with threats against Turkey.

King Saud was not able to do anything as regards Russia. What he did do was to work with Middle Eastern countries themselves, as an Arab and as a fellow Moslem with the Turks.

Saud Sides With Syria

As the situation developed, Saud promised to side with Syria, one of its colleagues in the Arab League, against any aggressor.

Saud knew that neither Turkey nor the United States had any intension of attacking Syria.

Under pressure, Saud also found it advisable to say that he never had formally accepted the Eisenhower Doctrine against Communist aggression in the Middle East.

That was true. But Saud had accepted the doctrine in fact because with him Communism ranks beside Israel as an enemy.

The Syrian-Turkish situation has been simmering down for some days, despite Russia's attempt to keep it boiling.

Saud seems, in the process, to have made it clear that he, not Nasser, is the leading figure among the Arabs.

The Woman's View–

Women Getting Hep — To World of Finance

By VIVIAN SANDE

NEW YORK (UP)—Americans —including women — are getting more and more hep to the world of finance.

So say the GGG's of New York, eight girls who guide visitors through a financial landmark that has become the third largest tourist attraction in New York City.

Any one of these girls might tell you about the Texan who some time ago entered the building and asked, "but where's the cattle?"

The "three G's" are the gallery girl guides of the New York Stock Exchange.

Million Dollar Gallery

They now operate in a million-dollar visitor's gallery and exhibition hall which last March was opened by the New York Stock Exchange Building to accommodate the ever-growing numbers of visitors.

Each year the guides take nearly 400,000 visitors, about half of them women, through the visitors galleries of the 165-year-old exchange. Over the gallery railing they point out the busy trading floor below, about the size of a football field but far more crowded.

The exchange now has 1,366 dues-paying members. Since 1950, the prices paid for the memberships (called seats although everyone on the floor stands) have ranged from $38,000 to $113,000. Members are entitled to execute "buy" or "sell" orders in the exchange's 1,200 listed stocks. More than half—51.6 per cent — of the 8,630,000 stock owners in the United States are women.

Know More Now

The girls say it is obvious more visitors know about stocks and the Stock Exchange than they did five years ago, because they never ask anymore: "Where are the seats?" They know there aren't any.

A recent survey shows the most frequently asked question today is "Can I go to the floor and place an order?" The answer: "No."

Other frequent questions:

What's the price of a seat on the exchange now? Answer: Around $72,000.

Why aren't there any women on the floor? Answer: No woman ever has applied for membership.

How did you get your job? Answer: "Applied for it."

Actually the gallery girl guides also have to apply themselves to their jobs. Catherine Wittemore, a former airplane mechanic and flier, says they're chosen for personality, appearance and ability to learn.

Dancers, Models, Artists

She said most of the 35 girls (ages range from 20 to 35) who have been GGG's since the service started, including former ballet dancers, models, an artist and a comparison shopper, knew little of finance when they began. They bone up on the business in an intensive 16-week training course at the Institute of Finance. It's part of their job to give a 15-minute talk on the Stock Exchange, then answer questions, and it's a tribute to them that they rarely are stumped, even by experts.

Visitors rarely ask their guides for tips on stocks. When they do, they are told, "we never forecast the future of the market."

Of course the gallery girl guides get their share of odd questions.

The favorite anecdote of the week:

A little old lady excitedly pointed to the figures 3:12 on the wall above the stock quotation board and said breathlessly, "Oh, tell me quickly what that stock is. I want to buy some as soon as I can. I've been watching it, and it's gone up two points in two minutes."

What she saw was a dial-less electric clock.

Ol' Phil Fumble chalked another neat, although abbreviated, record last week with a 6-2 chart to jump the average to .712 on a 47-19 season mark . . . Actually, Phil had picked his usual allotment of games but the flu again abbreviated the schedule . . . Here goes with the choices for this week: Johnston at MONESSEN; Brownsville at DONORA; Charleroi at CLAIRTON; REDSTONE at Monongahela; Bellmar at CALIFORNIA; Rostraver at SCOTTDALE; East Huntingdon at PERRYOPOLIS; WEST NEWTON at Ellsworth; SOUTH UNION at Dunbar; UNIONTOWN at Mt. Lebanon; Georges at GERMAN; NORTH UNION at St. Vincent; MAPLETOWN at Pt. Marion; Bentleyville at SHARPSBURG.

Pitt's football scholarship policy from 1954 to the present time is going to affect the fortunes of the grid team shortly for only 18 such scholarships were given in '54, '55 and '56 . . . It's hard to get a second unit as strong as the first with such a small number coming in each year . . . Incidentally, Panther scout Ernie Hefferle says the key to Notre Dame's offense is "a good blocking line and a group of fine backs." . . . Getting back to our friend Lou Kichinko for a moment, we forgot to tell you about Lou attending two football games in Mexico where the admission price was just 32 cents (American money) each!

Hunt Safely Week Now in Effect

This week is "Hunt Safely Week", so take heed you hunters and be extra careful. After a week of such practice caution will become automatic . . . Gov. Leader in proclaiming the special week reminds us that over 1,000,000 hunters (men and women) went into the forests and farmlands of the Commonwealth and that there are a few persons "who tend to forget that hunting is not a competitive sport — shooting of game is only a part of the pleasure they seek afield." . . . He reminds us that accidents are caused, they don't just happen . . . Don't pull that trigger until you're sure what's at the other end of that gun!

Wins Series With One Arm in Cast

When No. 5 Building won the Allenport Plant Employes Recreation League softball title last season they topped Auto Finish for the title in a three-out-of-four game decision in the five-game final playoffs on the strong arm of Bill Sullenberger . . . In fact on the "extra" strong arm of Bill Sullenberger who won all three games of the title series with his non-pitching arm in a cast . . . How's that for grit and determination (or there's another word which aptly describes it, the polite form of the word being stomach) . . . Gus Brickner has been swimming three and four miles a day to keep in tip-top shape (as always) for next season's channel try . . . Gus says the water temperature in the Monongahela is now 58, much warmer than the 50 degrees when he tried swimming the English Channel in July.

Fraley Reports Tokyo Baseball Happy City

By OSCAR FRALEY

TOKYO (UP)— There may be an argument as to which section of the United States plays the most baseball but whether it's Podunk or Podesta you can take it from Fearless Fraley today that it runs second to Tokyo without even counting the rest of baseball-happy Japan.

This is a town with more diamonds than Kimberley. And they give 'em a bigger play than the original doll who coined the phrase about sparklers being a girl's best friend.

For in Tokyo they play baseball everywhere there's room to swing "rui-virre" slugger or give it a windup which would put Joe E. Brown to shame.

Tracks, Lots, Rooftops

There is a suspicion in this corner that babies teeth on nickel rockets and that son-san practices swinging the hickory in the closet after lights out. Because these diamond daffodila can be seen giving it the Lew Burdette or the Yogi Berra on railroad tracks, in parking lots, on the main streets and even on rooftops.

As an example, Jeji Park has dozens of diamonds and they are filled, actually, from dawn to dusk. They have kid teams, junior teams and all the way up to bespectacled senior teams composed of guys old enough to know better. And there isn't a one of them who wouldn't swap you every Shinto Temple in Japan for a .350 batting average or the ability to knock one over the fence.

That, if a tyni,hcieef shhitgn

That, if anything, is the chief Japanese deficit. Maybe it's a lack of vitamins or too little puff in their babyhood rice but, for some reason or other, the Japanese couldn't knock your hat off with a base viol. A guy who wallops the ball at better than .200 clip is a helluva hitter and .310 ordinarily will make him the reincarnation of "baby-san russe."

Tokyo 'Giants' Beaten

This partially accounts for the fact that the Nishitetsu Lions' "no-hit" Inao this season has posted a record of 35 wins against a mere six defeats in leading his team into the Oct. 26 World Series (Japanese variety) against Tokyo. The Tokyo team is known as the "Giants," which may startle a few folks in New York and-or San Francisco, the stateside variety being a bit on the undersized and anemic side.

Yet, despite this craze which draws as many as 80,000 fans to a mere college game, professional baseball is not a short cut to Fort Knox or whatever may be the Japanese equivalent. A few stars earn as high as $500 a month but the average salary is $200 per month and the teams do not travel "ichi-ban" or first class either in the matter of railroads or hotels.

Wally Yonamine, a Hawaiian Neisei who once played football for the San Francisco Forty Niners, just about wrecked the major league situation in Japan this year by hitting in the .340's. Wally could probably run for emperor and nobody would sell his chances too short.

GREYHOUND SYMBOL GIFT — A life-size aluminum Greyhound, symbol of Monessen High School athletic teams has been mounted on the Knox Ave. side of the high school gymnasium. The impressive metal Greyhound was a gift of the Class of 1957.

Rostraver, Canes in Grid Tilts

Bellmar grid mentor Bap Manzini and Rostraver coach Wade Bender, with their neighborhood tilt out of the way last week, now wing back into intersectional action.

Both local entries have tough assignments this week, although the "roughest" label must go to Bellmar's foe, California, currently in the thick of the Class A race with a 5-0 record, three of the victories in A competition.

Coach Mitch Bailey has come up with a vertible powerhouse at California. He has seen his lads roll over Scottdale, Rostraver's foe Friday, 16-6, Beth Joint, 21-0, Rostraver, 25-0, Canonsburg 7-0, and Chartiers by 28-19. All but Beth Joint and Chartiers are league foes in the Class A category.

Scottdale has taken it on the chin in several games but has also surprised in others and is considered a tough eleven. Rostraver will have its hands full attempting to gain its first victory at the expense of the Scotties. The game is set for Scottdale.

Bellmar's game is also away where the Manzinimen will be trying for Victory No. 4 against two loses, to Perry and German.

'Cane wins have been chalked up against Centerville, Penn Joint, and Rostraver.

Both Leopard and Hurricane lineups are expected to be intact unless Reggie Kostelac, who was limping throughout the Rostraver tilt, is hobbled.

New Single High In Ladies League

A new single game high was rolled by P. Woodward, with a 211 in Monessen Ladies City League Bowling action this week, and also rolled the top three-game score of 497.

Other leading point-makers were J. Nicksich, V. Ellsworth, N. Tetkowski, K. Kurowsky, M. Opalinski, M. Koltash, T. Ciepley, A. Szabo, S. Matheson, S. Pascotti, B. Malinchak, and B. Gallas.

Seton Hill, Villa Maria, Rosemont, Mt. Mercy and Cedar Crest dropped victories over Bryn Mawr, Wellesley, Wheaton, Ladycliff and Vassar.

Dick Perry Posts Fabric Loop Mark

Dick Perry chalked up a new three-game series mark in the Fabric Bowling League last night with a 564, as the 49ers, Giants and Eagles posted victories over the Rams, Bears and Steelers.

J. Polinchack, J. Sobran, A. Fuoco, F. Shaffer and B. Menzler also had top scores, Polinchak hitting a 518 three-game mark.

Standings — 49ers 16-8, Bears 14-10, Steelers 13-11, Giants 11-13, Rams 9-15 and Eagles 9-15.

Williams, Lincoln Tied in Weld Loop

Williams and Lincoln were tied for Weld Shop Bowling League top honors following last night's action in which Lincoln, American torch, and Eutectic won their matches.

D. Vecchionone topped all pin-topplers with a 224 and a 549 card followed by I. Paterline, D. Ruzzutto, J. Koget, R. Battistone, and W. Brewer.

Standings — Williams 13-8, Lincoln 13-8, Eutectic 12-9, Atom Arc 9-12, M. Service 8-13 and A. Torch 8-13.

Marion Juniors Win; Carrolls Lose, 13-0

Two Junior High School games of district interest yesterday found Marion defeating South Huntingdon's Juniors 13-0 while Carroll Township was losing by the same count to Turtle Creek.

The Marion game score told the entire story in a game played in the rain and mud as it was all the Little Generals, leading in first downs, 8-2 and having command of the game all the way.

George Nucci quickly got Marion into the lead when he passed to John Daniels on a play covering 50 yards the second play after Harry Muckel's lads handled the ball. The extra point attempt failed and although Marion continued to move the ball another touchdown wasn't registered until the third quarter.

It's Daniels Again

It was Daniels again in the third period as he climaxed a Marion TD drive going over on a keeper from the two-yard line. George Trenk, 190-pound tackle then received one of his biggest football thrills when he was given the ball on an end around play from fake kick formation to tally the extra point for the final 13-0 count.

At Turtle Creek the Carroll's played the more - experienced Creekers on even terms but lost the game on long runs by two opposing backs.

Early in the first quarter, Bolasko carried wide around left end and stepped off 55 yards to paydirt. In the third period, "Sailor" Lawrence took a hand-off from Bolasko on a cross-over with the second half kickoff.

90 Yard TD Run

Lawrence set sail down the sidelines 90 yards for a score and the final 12-0 count. Calahan, another back had carried over for the extra point after the first TD.

Carroll once during the game moved the ball to within inches of the Creeker goal but couldn't get it across when a fumble stopped the threat. Carroll backs, Janney, who gained 19 yards, Caserta who picked up 32, Anderson with 11 and quarterback Tom McGuffie with 7 played terrific ball as did linemen Linaburg, Popovich, Falkavitz and Marracini.

Carroll now awaits the season finale at Scott Township next Monday while Vernon is the next Marion foe in the "bog one" for both teams next Thursday.

Unless the weather prevented it being played, Vernon was to battle Rostraver this afternoon.

Marion	6	0	7	0	—13
S. Hunt.	0	0	0	0	— 0

Nucci (pass); Daniels; Extra points — Trenk.

Turtle Creek	7	0	6	0	—13

TOUCHDOWNS — Bolasko, Lawrence.

EXTRA POINTS — Calahan.

Charles Bixsey Leads Open Hearth Loop

Charles Bixsey of Weddell bowled a 217 for the single game high in Open Hearth Bowling last night while Frank Warzinski, also of Weddells had a 531 three-game high.

Maykovichs, Balmers and Weddells posted victories as Andy Dacko, John Zdilla, Steve Simon, Nick Cullen and Art Palm also rolled top scores.

Standings — Weddells 17-7, Maykovich 16-8, Balmers 12-12, Whitehouse 10-14, Minardi 10-14 and Van Marter 7-17.

Phillies Reject Jersey

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (UP)— Parks Commissioner Bernard J. Berry said Wednesday that the Philadelphia Phillies have turned down an invitation to play eight of their games next season at Roosevelt Stadium. Berry said the Pittsburgh Pirates and Cincinnati Redlegs also had been invited but had not yet replied.

PSTCC to Vote On Flu-Delayed Grid Contests

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (UP)—The Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges Conference will decide at a meeting Nov. 24 the status of games cancelled by the flu epidemic.

No provisions are made in the conference constitution about cancellations due to unusual situations. The question whether cancellations can be claimed as forfeits will be discussed.

If Edinboro cannot reschedule its games with either Indiana or California, both of which requested cancellations because of flu, it might be out of the running for the conference championship. The playing of our conference games is required for championship contention, and Edinboro might not play the required minimum.

West Chester, undefeated defending champion, has only four conference games scheduled. East Stroudsburg, its opponent next Saturday, has requested a postponement.

Shippensburg present is in first place in conference standings.

Johnstown Game 'Off' At Request of Foe; Replacement Sought

Flu Epidemic Hits Johnstown Area; Local Officials Hope for Substitute

(BULLETIN)

Tomorrow night's Monessen-Johnstown football game has been postponed indefinitely at the request of Johnstown school officials, it was announced at noon today.

A flu epidemic has forced suspension of classes in Johnstown.

Henry Furio, Monessen High principal, said efforts are being made to schedule another opponent for tomorrow or Saturday night.

"We're in pretty fair shape with only possibly Paul Tobacco doubtful for the Johnstown game", Monessen head coach Armand Niccolai stated this morning.

Nick reported that some other players were "shaken up" a little but he hoped to have them ready for the tough Johnnies, come Friday night.

The best news the veteran Greyhound mentor has heard in quite some time came this week when it was learned standout tackle James (Bobo) Aldrich, will be ready to return to action for the Johnstown encounter.

Aldrich had been out since the Windber clash with a side injury which failed to respond to treatment until recently.

Johnstown's Record

Johnstown brings a 2-2 record to Monessen Friday with all games against top-notch foes, blanking Redstone in the opener, 27-0, losing to Windber, 20-13 and New Kensington, 14-6 but dropping Duquesne from the Class AA title race, 7-0. Last week's game was postponed due to the flu.

After the Windber and New Kensington defeats Coach Dave Hart threatened to quit as Johnnie coach in an apparent psychology move which has seemingly worked considering the fine showing against the Dukes.

Niccolai said today he would probably go with the same starters as against Redstone showing George Guibourdanche at end teaming with Dennis O'Toole, Aldrich and Pascarrella at tackles, Paul Bob Pauline and Terry Throop at guards, Lou Gigliotto or Mike Churan at center with Dan Barton, Ken Bronson, Joe Karbowsky and Carl Rattay in the backfield.

Big, 260-pound Ed Allen may be sidelined due to a recurrent leg injury which "acts up" from time to time.

Handley Files Counter-suit

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Lee (Jeep) Handley, former Pittsburgh Pirates third baseman, filed a counter-suit for damages in Federal Court here in connection with a motorboat collision last Sept. 21 at Deep Creek, Md.

The collision involved boats operated by Handley, who was at his peak with the Pirates in the late '30s, and Nicholas Pallitta, 19, son of a Greensburg, Pa., contractor.

Handley's suit alleged he suffered a severe back injury. It charged the other boat failed to show lights or carry a bell and was operated recklessly.

In a suit filed Sept. 29, the Pallitas accused Handley of operating a boat without lights and failing to yield the right-of-way.

Cavanaugh Joins Sox

CHICAGO (UP)—Charles Cavanaugh, a 21-year-old outfielder signed with the Chicago White Sox' Duluth-Superior farm club in the Northern League. Cavanaugh hit .396 for the Little Rock, Ark., Air Force team this year.

Gilmer Candidate For 'Bama Job

WASHINGTON (UP)—Harry Gilmer, an assistant coach for the Pittsburgh Steelers, was a solid candidate today to succeed J.B. Whitworth as Alabama coach.

Gilmer was given an inside track for the job following Paul (Bear) Bryant's flat statement he intends to remain at Texas A&M. Bryant told George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, Wednesday, that reports of his leaving the Aggies are "absolutely untrue."

Bryant then endorsed Gilmer as his No. 1 candidate.

Whitworth, who has a 20-20-2 record at Alabama, has been under fire all season and is considered certain to step down at the close of the campaign.

Top scorers were K. Joseph with a three-game high 365 and B. Koawl with a 135 single game. B Gladys and O. Yetsconish were also among the top rollers.

"They're sore WINNERS!"

Clemson, SU in 'Big Thursday' Encounter Today

By TOM PRICE

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UP) — South Carolina and Clemson meet today in a unique and colorful mid-week football classic that is scheduled to vanish from the nation's sports scene after 1959.

It's Big Thursday in South Carolina, a Richland County legal holiday. It might as well be a holiday for the remainder of the state as well for most football fans not lucky enough to have tickets to the sellout always follow the action by radio.

Big Thursday hasn't played to an empty seat, rain or shine, since 1896 and this year is no exception. Some 45,000 persons were scheduled to jam into newly enlarged Carolina Stadium which has 43,725 seats, including chairs placed along the sidelines.

The weatherman forecast cloudy skies with probable rain which threatened to spoil the fashion show the ladies put on each Big Thursday in displaying their new fall finery.

At the insistence of Clemson, the visiting team on 55 Big Thursdays, the ancient series which has produced countless thrills and two near riots during its tumultuous existence, will pass from existence after the 1959 game.

South Carolina remained the favorite (one-touchdown) going into today's game despite the loss of half its starting backfield due to injuries. Left halfback King Dixon has an injured leg and quarterback Bobby Bunch a shoulder separation

Clemson won last year, 7-0, in a tough defensive struggle which ultimately meant the Atlantic Coast Conference championship and an Orange Bowl bid for the Tigers over the Gamecocks.

Bears Take Lead In AHL Standings

By UNITED PRESS

The Hershey Bears, overcoming a three-goal deficit, came back to tie Springfield Wednesday night and gain a three-point lead in the American Hockey League.

Hershey scored once in each period for a 3-3 tie with the Indians. A 10-minute overtime was played, but neither team was able to capitalize.

No other games were scheduled Wednesday night but Friday night Springfield will play at Cleveland and the second-place Providence Reds will be at Rochester.

Nellie Fox, Mantle Top AL All-Stars

By FRED DOWN

NEW YORK (UP)— Nelson Fox, who's hit a total of 25 home runs in 11 big league seasons, and Mickey Mantle, who's hit that many in half a campaign, were the only unanimous picks on the United Press 1957 American League All-Star team.

The team, selected by a 24-man committee of three baseball writers from each city in the league, also included catcher Yogi Berra and shortstop Gil McDougald of the Yankees, first baseman Vic Wertz of the Indians, third baseman Frank Malzone and outfielder Ted Williams of the Red Sox, outfielder Roy Sievers of the Senators, pitcher Jim Bunning of the Tigers and Fox' White Sox teammate, pitcher Billy Pierce.

The Baltimore Orioles and Kansas City Athletics were the only teams not represented on a squad that averages 30 years of age per man. The eight regulars hit a total of 200 home runs this year and both pitchers hit the 20-victory total on the nose.

In Fox and Mantle, the writers honored perhaps the two key men in an American League pennant race that quickly developed into a two-team fight between the White Sox and Yankees.

Fox, a 5-foot, 9-inch, 155-pounder from St. Thomas, Pa., typified the White Sox' season-long struggle to out-hustle and out-fight a Yankee team that was superior in both front-line personnel and depth. A fighter all the way, Fox played in all 155 of his team's games, led the league with 196 hits and batted .317 — fifth best average in the circuit.

Mantle, of course, was the Yankees' "big stick." He batted .365 and hit 34 homers despite the fact he was walked 146 times. The youngest regular on the team at 26, Mantle is a strong candidate to win his second straight most valuable player award.

Dodgers Working On Final Details For LA Moving

LOS ANGELES (UP)—President Walter O'Malley and his executive staff today began hammering out the details of getting the new Los Angeles Dodgers in operation for the 1958 National League baseball season.

O'Malley, on his arrival Wednesday by plane from New York, assured a welcoming host of several thousand new fans that the Dodgers were going to be a dynamic ball club in the West.

He said the most important single thing facing the Bums' organization immediately was "to get that big stadium in operation," referring to the 50,000-seat ball park he plans to erect in Chavez Ravine.

O'Malley declared that Los Angeles fans need not have any "misgiving" as far as the players are concerned.

"We've got some good boys coming along and we'll tell you all about them in due course," he said

O'Malley said his official staff would be here about a week "until we accomplish everything on our agenda."

Sandlotter Unitas Proving Terrific Pro Quarterback

BALTIMORE (UP)— It's about time they begin to take Johnny Unitas seriously. He is the Baltimore Colts' young quarterback nobody seemed to want.

The quarterback the Colts picked up from sandlot football where he was playing for $6 a game, currently leads the National Football League in the passing department that counts most—touchdowns.

Unitas has thrown 12 touchdown passes in the first four games of this season. He has thrown four in two games and threatens to set a league record if he can keep up the torrid pace. Unitas also is leading the league in completed passes with 54 and in total yards gained by passing, 794.

80-Cent Phone Call

Two years ago, when Unitas was playing with the Bloomfield Rams in the Greater Pittsburgh League it seemed absurd to believe he ever would be a big-time football star. But an 80-cent phone call from Don Kellett, the Colts' general manager, changed absurdity into reality and set Unitas on the road to stardom.

The Steelers picked Unitas as their ninth draft choice in 1955 but cut him before he had a chance to play in a single game. Unitas said that he participated in about 30 scrimmage plays and threw three touchdown passes but the Steelers were more interested in Jimmy Finks, Ted Marchibroda and Vic Eaon.

Unitas doesn't appear to have any particular regrets. Besides the Steelers weren't the only ones to pass him up.

Too Small For N.D.

Notre Dame didn't want him after a visit to the Irish campus—too small at 160 pounds. (Today, Unitas is a boyish looking blond with a brush haircut, standing six-one and weighing 190).

He worked out at Indiana and still doesn't know whether Clyde Smith wanted him to stay but finally hooked on at the University of Louisville, where he was a small college star.

Unitas said that he still might be playing sandlot ball if Kellett hadn't made that telephone call when he noticed his name on an old waiver bulletin.

George Shaw got hurt in the fourth game of the 1956 season and Unitas took over. The rest is history. Unitas racked up a 55.6 per cent pass completion mark, highest ever made by a rookie in league history.

Where Are They Now?

LARRY MACPHAIL

Major league baseball, which usually breeds soft-spoken, retiring front office officials, held its breath from day to day over the antics of Larry MacPahil when he was head man with the Cincinnati Redlegs, Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees MacPhail once tried to kidnap the German Kaiser, introduced night baseball to the majors and fired and rehired manager Leo Durocher several times a season at Brooklyn.

Whatever happened to Larry MacPahil? Today, he breeds race horses at his farm in Bel-Air, Md.

Auburn College Defense Leader; Navy, Okies Next

NEW YORK (UP)—The Auburn Tigers, belying the tradition of Southern hospitality, continue as the stingiest group among the nation's major college football teams.

Undefeated Auburn has yielded an average of 157.8 yards a game to rank as the total defense leader for the second straight week. The Tigers, who have allowed just one touchdown all season also rate second to Iowa in defense against running plays.

Oklahoma State and Navy are tied for second in total defense with identical 168.8 yard averages per game. Princeton and Miami of Florida are close behind.

Iowa, in taking the lead in rushing defense, has allowed its opposition an average 58.5 yards on the ground Georgia Tech tops the nation's colleges in pass defense, having permitted 30.8 air yards a game. Navy, however, boasts the best air defense percentage of .242.

UCLA, on the strength of its 51-yard average against Oregon State last Saturday, jumped into the top spot in punting. The Uclans have an average of 42.4 yards for their 30 efforts. Tennessee is second with 41.7.

Utah State QB Paces Colleges Offensively

NEW YORK (UP) — It's Bob Winters by air and Bob Stransky by land in the race for the major college individual total offense championship.

Winters, a senior quarterback from Yakima, Wash., has rolled up 809 yards in Utah State's first five games to take a 14-yard lead over Stransky, Colorado University halfback from Yankton, S.D. Winters has gained all but 52 of those yards passing while Stransky has picked up all but 160 yards by rushing.

Behind the two leaders in the total offense department came Don Allard of Boston College with 750 yards and Bob Newman of Washington State with 646 yards.

Winters, of course, leads in passing with 57 completions in 108 attempts for 757 yards and five touchdowns and Stransky leads in rushing with 635 yards in 92 tries. Billy Baker of Furman ranks second in passing with 43 completions in 75 attempts for 417 yards and four touchdowns and Don Perkins of New Mexico is second in rushing with 567 yards in 73 cracks at the line.

Sox Sign Smith

CHICAGO (UP)— Bob Smith, 20-year-old shortstop from Reading, Pa., who hit .252 for Daytona Beach Fla., of the Florida State League this year, has signed with the Chicago White Sox' Davenport, Iowa, affiliate in the Three III League.

Pitt Lineup Uncertain for Irish Battle

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pitt coach John Michelosen left in doubt today the question whether he will reshuffle his starting lineup for for the Notre Dame game at South Bend, Ind., next Saturday.

So far this season, Michelosen has stuck with his original starting team, except in cases where illness forced him to do otherwise.

Many Pitt fans believe, however, the Panther coach will make more extensive alterations Saturday, after the 29-13 drubbing his team took at the hands of Army last week end.

Coach Terry Brennan of Notre Dame said he was concerned about the fact his team faces Pitt after an open date. He said it was tougher to get ready for Pittsburgh than for any earlier game.

"They're a big, rugged football team, and a lot better than some people think," Brennan said. "People talk about them not having any imagination. I think that's an error.

"They do about anything you can do on offense, and they're big and strong and tough on defense. And as usual they'll probably play their best game against us."

Celtic Cagers Steal Show at Detroit

By UNITED PRESS

Professional basketball returned to Detroit, but it was the world-champion Boston Celtics who stole the spotlight.

Boston overcame a six-point halftime deficit Wednesday night to spoil the debut of the Detroit Pistons, 105-94, in the feature of an all-pro doubleheader. In the opener, the New York Knickerbockers handed St. Louis its second straight defeat, 112-95.

A crowd of 10,965 saw Bill Sharman score 14 points in the final period as the free-scoring Celtics broke the game wide open.

The Knicks scored 13 points before St. Louis, last year's Western Division champions, was able to counter its first field goal. New York held a 51-44 halftime lead and moved to a 15-point lead at the end of the third quarter.

Elbie Nickel's Consecutive Streak Seen Ended Due to Bad Bruise

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Dr. Phil Faix, Pitsburgh Steelers physician, said today it was "unlikely" Elbie Nickel will be able to play Sunday—the day he would have competed in his 125th consecutive pro game.

Nickel, the "Iron Man" of the National Football League, suffered a bruised tendon in his upper right arm in the New York Giants game last Sunday.

The Steelers meet the Philadelphia Eagles next Sunday at Forbes Field.

Nickel's benching will end the longest consecutive playing streak ever compiled in the pro league.

He has played for the Steelers every game since 1947 when he joined the squad after an outstanding football and baseball record at the University of Cincinnati. The Cincinnati Redlegs signed Nickel to a contract before the Steelers convinced him to make a career of football.

In his more than 10 seasons with the Steelers, Nickel has piled up an impressive list of team records. In addition to the longevity mark, he caught more passes and touchdown passes, gained more yardage on passes and scored more touchdowns than did any other Steeler in a single season.

Steeler coach Buddy Parker released Sid Fournet, an offensive guard Wednesday and added lineman Willie Lee to his roster. Lee, from Florida A&M, recently was released by the Chicago Bears.

Spieser Guarantee Assures Moore Go

DETROIT (UP)— Chuck Spieser's financial backers had to post $75,000 with the Michigan Boxing Commission by 3 p.m. today to validate contracts signed Wednesday for a January light heavyweight title fight with champion Archie Moore.

If the money isn't posted by the deadline Spieser must forfeit the $10,000 filed with the commission Oct. 15 as the downpayment towards a $100,000 guarantee to Moore.

Spieser's brother manager, Joe Spieser, said "the money will be there" and apologized for the "embarrassing incident" Wednesday. He said the backers didn't realize their bank closed at noon Wednesday and arrived too late to make the necessary deposit to back the check.

Jan. 17 has been selected as the tentative date for the title fight at the Michigan State Fairgrounds Coliseum. Final decision on a date rests on whether television rights are sold.

Archers Buy Twice as Many '57 Licenses

Reasonable "guestimates" on the recent bow and arrow season for deer follow this line:

The archers purchased about twice as many special licenses to hunt deer in Pennsylvania during their exclusive 1957 season as did for their 1956 season. Last year 26,210 of these licenses were bought. The exact 1957 number will not be known until license sale reports from all county treasurers are received

According to field estimates about 1,000 deer were killed in this October's hunter choice season In 1956 there were 224 legal bucks killed by persons who deer hunted "Indian style." The archers' separate 1957 season was different from the previous ones, however, in that deer of either sex, regardless of size, antler growth or lack of it, were legal game this year.

As of October 16, reports received in Harrisburg of deer killed by arrows in the recent season totaled 791. Apparently, as in past some bowmen are mistakenly waiting until after the final deer season of the year to return their report. The Game Law definitely states that every successful deer hunter must return his kill tag (or report giving the required information) within five days following the close of the particular season in which the animal was killed. The Game Commission is determined to learn, as nearly as possible, of every deer killed in Pennsylvania during any and all of the 1957 seasons.

its Wardens to give Game Protectors their usual good assistance prior to and during the 1957 game seasons.

As in years past this cooperation has resulted in the successful conclusion of numerous cases in which game-shooting "sooners" and in-season violators were brought to book.

Game Protectors face a tremendous law enforcement task each fall, before and during the open game seasons. Pennsylvania sportsmen are assured, however, that the customary pooling of forces with the Fish Wardens and the large Deputy Game Protector corps will result in another commendable record, in which wild game will be guarded in the interest of the legitimate hunter and trapper.

Senate Probers Hear Testimony from Labor Spy in Ohio Plants

WASHINGTON (UP)— The Senate Rackets Committee called for testimony today from Charles Litell, described as a former anti-union stool pigeon for labor relations adviser Nathan W. Shefferman.

The committee summoned Litell as it tracked Shefferman, described by counsel Robert F. Kennedy as "a notorious union buster," through Whirlpool Corp. plants in Marion and Clyde, Ohio.

Also summoned to testify was Emerson Barringer of Jackson, Mich., organizer for the CIO United Auto Workers who tried to recruit Whirlpool workers at Marion. The committee will meet at 10:30 a.m. e.d.t.

Litell was pictured in testimony Wednesday as a labor spy and head of a "spontaneous" anti-union workers' committee at the Marion plant with the secret aid of Dr. Louis Checov, a Shefferman staff member who now refuses to come back from Vancouver, B.C., to testify.

But he apparently switched sides, for other witnesses said he was fired after he planted balloons in the plant to urge workers to vote for the CIO United Auto Workers.

Whirlpool officials denied any knowledge of a committee designed to keep the UAW out of the Marion plant. But they conceded that after haggling they paid Checov's heavy expense vouchers for food and drink for committee members.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), describing Checov as "a fugitive from justice," read from the unsworn report of an investigator who interviewed the "industrial psychologist" in Vancouver.

In the report Checov was quoted as saying he probably broke "every unfair labor practice law on the books" at Whirlpool-Marion.

Says Spies Used

The report also quoted Checov as saying Litell was one of his "watchdogs" inside the plant who would talk with workers or eavesdrop on their conversations to spot pro-union men and report them to the management through Checov.

The plant is still non-union.

An affidavit from Whirlpool employee Eldon Phillips said he helped Litell and Phillips set up the "vote no committee" and spied on fellow workers.

Hufert and Glenn Evans, former general manager of the Marion plant, said Checov was fired because of his high expenses and because they learned he paid "small sums" to Litell.

Pitt to Buy Hospital for Research Center

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The University of Pittsburgh today announced it will purchase Municipal Hospital, closed since Jan. 1, and will make it into a research and educational center.

The building will be renamed Dr. Jonas E. Salk Hall in honor of the discoverer of the anti-polio vaccine.

Sale of the hospital building was announced today at a press conference in the offices of Mayor David L. Lawrence. Legislation authorizing the sale of the city-owned institution will be introduced in city council.

The university said an Institute of Experimental Medicine will be set up to operate in Salk Hall. Federal, state and county agencies engaged in health work will be alloted space in the building.

Municipal Hospital, a 250-bed institution, was built in 1941 at a cost of $2,225,000. Designed as an institution for treatment of contagious diseases, it outlived its usefulness. Only a handful of patients were being treated at the hospital when it closed its doors the first of the year.

Teamsters Hearing Is Today

WASHINGTON (UP)—The AFL-CIO Executive Council appeared ready to suspend the Teamsters Union today and urge its expulsion from the big labor federation.

Teamsters President - Elect James R. Hoffa planned to fight expulsion in a final appeal on behalf of his 1,400 000-member union, the nation's largest.

Hoffa and other top officials were called before the 29-man council to report what the union has done about an AFL-CIO clean up order issued Sept 25 The Council will meet at 2 p.m. edt

Teamster sources said Hoffa planned to ask for a year s time to bring his union in line with AFL-CIO cleanup demands

The AFL-CIO Council virtually ordered the union to get rid of Hoffa and incumbent President Dave Beck as well as Brewster and Brennan if it wanted to stay in the AFL-CIO Beck who did not seek reelection, is staying in the presidency pending disposal of a court suit seeking to nullify Hoffa s election

AFL-CIO sources said it was unlikely Hoffa would remove himself from the top job as demanded by the council.

The Teamsters convention overwhelmingly elected Hoffa and rejected AFL-CIO corruption charges in defiance of the federation

Informed sources said these actions would result in the union's suspension even though the federal court suit now is under way challenging the validity of the election

A federal judge Wednesday barred Hoffa and his handpicked slate of officers from taking over unul the court decides after a trial if they were properly chosen The Teamsters planned to appeal the ruling today

Reed to Run Again

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Daniel A Reed (NY), who has served longer in Congress than any other present Republican member, says it is his "present intention" to seek reelection next year. The 82-year-old lawmaker said he was not formally announcing his candidacy. "I never do," he said, "I just run."

Dag May Go to Mideast

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—Plans to send Secretary General Dag Hammarsjold to the Middle East to investigate the crisis between Turkey and Syria rapidly gained support in the United Nations today.

Although no delegation had officially sponsored such a move up to today, it was reported that some delegation might propose it formally Friday when the General Assembly resumes the Mideast debate.

The assembly adjourned its debate Tuesday until Friday to give King Saud of Saudi Arabia a chance to mediate the Turco-Syrian crisis.

Turkey accepted Saud's offer. Syria, prodded by the Soviet Union, has resisted it, somewhat to the dismay of some of the other Arab delegations.

Discussed Privately

The suggestion to send Hammarskjold to the Mideast first was made Monday by Adram Hourani, speaker of the Syrian Parliament, in an interview in Damascus with United Press correspondent Peter Webb.

U. S sources would not say their delegation was ready to support the "send Hammarskjold" proposal although it was discussed by the United States with other delegations Wednesday. The Syrians, Russians and their supporters also discussed it privately

Some diplomats thought Saudi Arabia might ask for more time to let Saud try to mediate the Syrian-Turkish dispute.

If so, the General Assembly probably would vote for another and longer postponement of its debate when it meets Friday, thus putting off any formal move to send Hammarskjold to the Middle East immediately.

Scientist Says Army Misusing Former Assistant

CARBONDALE, Ill (UP) — A university scientist has criticized the Army for assigning a "mathematical genius" to clerking duties and said "it's no wonder we have fallen behind in our missile program."

Dr Karl Lindegren, a geneticist at Southern Illinois University, said Tuesday night the Army ignored the scientific ability of his former assistant, Ernest Shult, 24, Fairbury, Ill

Shult was credited with developing a new theory of genetical analysis at SIU before he was drafted into the Army for two years of service last April 16.

In Washington, an Army spokesman said "the appropriateness of his (Shult's) assignment is being evaluated by the Army."

The spokesman said Shult was performing administrative duties at Quartermaster School Headquarters at Fort Lee, Va.

"This assignment was made on the basis of his records at the time of his arrival at Fort Lee," the Army said.

Lindegren referred to Shult as "the most outstanding mathematical genius I have encountered in 30 years of scientific research..."

Charge Dismissed

NEW YORK (UP)—A charge of simple assault against Stork Club owner Sherman Billingsley was dismissed Wednesday when the complainant failed to appear. Last June 11 a house painter accused Billingsley of threatening to shoot him and several other painters who were having their lunch on Billingsley's porch. When the painter, Murray Beskin, failed to appear in General Sessions Court, Judge Bernard A. Kozicke dismissed the charge.

$73,775 Awarded By Federal Jury

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Stanley W Jessloski, 28, Coraopolis, was awarded 73,775 by a Federal Court jury Tuesday night for injuries suffered in a 1955 railroad accident.

The verdict followed a weeklong trial of a suit against the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Co, for which Jessloski worked as a carman's helper when the mishap occurred.

Jessloski was lifting a box car with a jack when the car dropped off the jack, striking him on the head He suffered a skull fracture, a brain injury and facial fractures, his counsel said

Five railroad workers testified they had objected to the railroad about the use of only one jack for heavy work.

Local Soldier Returns to Duty; Spends Time on Combat Course

(This is the sixth in a series of letters written by Alfred Klimcke, a Monessen youth who recently started a six-month training program under the Reserve Forces Act. He is relating some of the experiences which recruits undergo.)

By ALFRED KLIMCKE

FORT KNOX, Kentucky — (Special to The Daily Independent) — After a two week rest, one of which I spent in Ireland Army Hospital here at Fort Knox, I returned to duty in the seventh week of basic training.

We were up at 4:20 a. m. on Monday and marched over our old friend, "Misery Hill" to the close combat course.

After the procedure we were to use was explained we were issued five clips of ammunition and took up a prone firing position behind a barb wire obstacle in 11-man squads.

At the command of the squad leader we opened fire with eight rounds at human silhouette targets which popped up for 10 seconds at a distance of 25 yards.

Then, one half of the squad advanced, crawling under the barb wire, to the next firing position behind a rail fence while the other half covered their advance. As soon as the first half opened fire the second half moved up to the fence and began firing.

The squad advanced in this manner through three other positions, firing eight live rounds at each one. The terraine was quite rough with barb wire and rubble strewn about.

At the fifth position, the squad rallied together and, at the squad leader's command, three hand grenades at simulated enemy positions and then began an assault, marching quickly and firing from the hip.

Tuesday was occupied by four hours of practice in dismounted drill and classes on tactics used by a squad in attack.

Wednesday introduced us to the obstacle, or as it is now called, the "confidence course." We spent an hour in climbing about on rather precarious wooden constructions of several types, some of them more than 40 feet high. After another hour of dismounted drill we had a class on the construction of field fortifications. The rest of the morning we spent in classes on patrolling.

After noon chow the company engaged in a drill competition with several other companies in the same week of basic training. It had begun to rain during the morning, but everything still went off according to schedule.

We were then loaded into trucks and taken to our next assignment, the "infiltration course" which turned out to be the most uncomfortable one we've had thus far.

Here we were lined up crouching behind a four foot high cement wall. When given the command we rolled over the wall and began to crawl with our weapons cradled in our arms.

We crawled about 20 yards on our stomachs, then rolled over to negotiate 15 yards of barb wire on our backs. Then, more stomach crawling and more barb wire.

Crawls Through Course

The total length of the course was 80 yards, at the end of which we flopped over another four foot wall. All the time we were crawling through the course, machine guns were firing constantly over our heads and TNT explosions were being set off in special pits on the course itself.

The object of the course is to get the soldier accustomed to battle conditions and sounds.

We crawled through the course three times, one of which was after dark, while the machine guns fired tracer ammunition. Before and during our third trip a steady icy downpour soaked the sandy ground and the sandy soldiers.

Dripping wet, we were loaded back on the trucks and arrived back at the company area at 8:30 p. m., and faced the task of cleaning the sand, mud and rust out of our equipment. We finally accomplished this about 11 p. m.

The rest of the week was rather casual by comparison, with classes on land mine warfare on Thursday, an important inspection on Friday and a Saturday parade.

On Sunday we left for "bivouac", five days of maneuvers while living in the field in pup tents.

Over the week end I ran into another area acquaintance, Ken Shetterly, Perryopolis youth, who is serving six months under the Reserve Forces Act program.

FALL FLOWER SHOW — Here's one of the scenes expected to attract considerable attention at the Fall Flower show in the Phipps Conservatory, Pittsburgh. The show will open Nov. 3 and run through Nov. 24. Chrysanthemums from the Emperor's garden in Tokyo will be a feature of the show.

Fall Flower Show To Open at Phipp's

Chrysanthemums from the Emporor's garden in Tokyo and a "Gingerbread Boy" will feature the 63rd annual Fall Flower Show at Phipps Conservatory in Pittsburgh.

The Flower Show opens Sunday, Nov. 3, and continues through Nov. 24. Conservatory hours are from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily, with special illuminated shows from 7 p. m. until 10 p. m. each evening.

The Japanese "mums," raised from seeds, and English hybrids grown from cuttings are among the new varieties on display. Always noted for its profusion of cascade "mums," Phipps Conservatory presents two new varieties this autumn. The "Gingerbread Boy" is the children's garden feature, arranged before the facade of an old English home.

The large electric fountain which proved popular in the spring show is now permanent. It was purchased by The Pittsburgh Foundation and presented to the Conservatory.

The Flower Show also includes arrangements by the Pittsburgh Guild of Flower Arrangers, whose effort has been warmly received in recent Shows.

Among other settings are such traditional favorites as the Contemporary Garden and the Old Fashioned Garden. Both have new design treatment for the Fall Show. The perennially attractive Orchid Garden includes many new varieties of African violet.

The Flower Show is co-sponsored by the Recreation Conservation and Park Council, Allegheny Conference on Community Development and the Department of Parks and Recreation, City of Pittsburgh.

Cure for Baldness?

ATLANTA (UP)—Those cold Vermont winters could be one reason why Arthur J. Cota wants some leaves from Georgia peach trees. Cota, who lives in Milton, Vt., has a high-level condition known as baldness. He recently wrote to Atlanta officials: "Would you please send me about 25 peachtree leaves? An old remedy for baldness reads: 'Take a large handful of Peachtree leaves, steep them into strong tea. Rub well into the scalp and you'll soon see new hair coming.'"

Defense Dept. Mail Pushing For Satellites

By TOM NELSON

WASHINGTON (UP)— If the Defense Department's mail is any clue, American taxpayers want the nation's rocket programs pushed vigorously regardless of cost.

Two citizens, mindful of the defense money squeeze, even have gone so far as to send Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy small cash contributions to help finance missile and satellite work.

The Pentagon has received more than 125 letters, cards and telegrams from private citizens on the successful Russian satellite launching Oct. 4. With few exceptions they urged McElroy not to spare the horses in the missile field.

Reversal Of Trend

That is a complete switch from a month ago — before Sputnik. Then the bulk of Pentagon mail applauded economy steps by Congress and Charles E. Wilson, McElroy's predecessor.

"To hell with taxes," wrote a Danbury, Conn., couple. "Give us the moon."

A Charlotte, N. C., man sent a $1 money order to help organize satellites. From Oakland, Calif., came a $5 check to help assure that the United States is first with a space platform and "ultimately, to the moon."

Sends Poem

A man from Pierre, S.D., sent a poem about "Little Ivan Sputnik" with these final verses:

He caused a great commotion,
He's really just a blur,
He travels in one motion
At 18,000 per.

Little Ivan Sputnik
Is a lonesome little man,
But soon he'll have a partner
By the name of Uncle Sam.

Reds Have Way Of Looking At It

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Soviet earth satellite isn't really flying over other countries, according to Moscow Radio. The countries are getting under Sputnik. Replying to charges that Sputnik was violating national sovereignty by flying over countries without permission, the broadcast said: "The Soviet satellite does not violate the sovereignty of any country for the simple reason that it is not flying in the atmosphere above other countries. Rather, it is the territory of these countries which, as a result of the rotation of the earth, is moving—so to speak—under the satellite's orbit, which is consistent in relation to the earth and the stars."

Expert Loses in Fight to Test Income Tax Law

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Edward J. Harkins, Johnstown attorney, who failed to pay income taxes in 1953 and 1954 because he believed the law was unconstitutional, was fined $12,000 Tuesday.

The 62-year-old constitutional law expert switched his plea during the proceedings and admitted to government claims he avoided payment of $5,842 in federal taxes.

Judge Herbert P. Sorg imposed the stiff fine despite a parade of 19 prominent witnesses who testified to Harkin's good character. Witnesses appearing for Harkins included Cambria County Judges Ivan J. McKenrick and A. A. Nelson, Judge Homer L. Kreider of Dauphin County and Cambria County Dist. Atty. David C. Wolfe.

Federal tax agents said the defendant voluntarily submitted returns and paid taxes once the investigation of his case was begun.

Counsel for Harkins, former Judge Alexander Cooper, explained his client once believed the income tax laws were unconstitutional, but now believes he was wrong in not filing a return.

Judge Kreider described Harkins as "best in his class in constitutional law."

Sorg, in fining Harkins, said "he is mistaken in both his interpretation and method of testing his theory."

120 Mergers to Be Voted Upon

HARRISBURG (UP) — Voters in 120 Pennsylvania school districts will ballot on the proposed formation of 35 district mergers in the Nov. 5 election.

In each case, the voting will decide the proposed consolidation of smaller school districts into a single district, or to continue as separate school boards operating a joint school.

The merger of smaller school districts is encouraged by the state Public Instruction Department as having greater operating efficiency and increased state aid.

Eighty-nine such mergers have been executed since 1911. If the 35 proposed consolidations are approved it would decrease the number of school districts in the state from 2,420 to 2,335.

American Family Near Bankruptcy

The average American family is only three months from bankruptcy, two experts agreed today.

The experts are Helen White, executive secretary of the National Thrift Committee, and Jack Olson, vice-president in charge of the disability department of the Combined Insurance Co. of America, Chicago.

Their comments, released in connection with National Thrift week, October 20 to 26, were based on a recent survey — conducted by leading insurance companies — on the financial standing of middle class American families.

The survey showed, they said, that the average family is "just 90 days from disaster," financially-speaking.

Only few families accumulate a financial cushion to carry them beyond this point if the breadwinner loses his job or is incapacitated by illness.

The survey showed, Miss White and Olson said, that this payday-to-payday form of financial existence is taking a psychological and sociological toll. It creates marital strains between husbands and wives, plus anxiety and tension among children.

"The results of the survey represent up-to-date proof that many families have little or no reserve in the form of savings to tide themselves over an emergency that suddenly cuts off current earnings," said Miss White.

"In many instances, the family's paycheck undergoes a lateral pass the minute it is picked up at the payroll office. The check is cashed or deposited in a checking account — but the money must immediately be paid out to cover bills and demands for the family's current subsistence.

Even with continuing inflation, Miss White and Olson agreed, there are concrete steps families may take in order to ward off catastrophe.

Miss White emphasized the need for sound personal money-management — based on a practical budget and recognition of the fact that "outgo must never exceed income."

"A business soon goes bankrupt if not set up on a proper financial basis, with adequate reserves set aside systematically for future exigencies," she said.

"The average family, without adequate reserves in the form of savings of one kind or another, faces the constant threat of bankruptcy in 10 to 12 weeks in the event of an emergency."

One effective method of building up savings is to form the habit of setting aside a regular amount each payday for savings, much in the same manner as the income tax and other items are deducted from each paycheck.

December Draft Call Set at 480

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Selective Service Director Henry M. Gross today announced a December draft call for Pennsylvania of 480 men.

Gross said the men called up for military service will be inducted between Dec. 1 and Dec. 12. It will bring the total number of Pennsylvanians drafted this year to 10,952.

Parkers Holiday

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. (UP) —Violation flags on parking meters didn't bother motorists of this beach community today. When the city council drafted a new traffic ordinance, someone forgot to include parking meter regulations in it.

Electronic, Mechanized High School Proposed by Scientists

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UP) — Many scientists are keenly aware that there is going to be "a crisis in education" which will make the present so-called crisis seem to be nothing at all, and so they have been stirred by an outline of an electronic, mechanized high school which could theoretically prevent or solve the crisis, although at great cost.

In this high school most of the teaching would be done by machines. It would be staffed by a large number of clerks to coordinate machine - taken records of pupils and their progress in learning, and a small number of highly skilled teachers who would function only on the highest educating levels, thus teaching only what machines couldn't.

Ramo Makes Outline

The outline was made by Dr. Simon Ramo, noted scientist, electrical engineer, and member of the faculty of the California Institute of Technology. After he made the outline, the Russians both launched an earth satellite and proved their mastery of long-range rocketry. Unanimous scientific opinion is that such developments brings the big crisis closer.

It is an always increasingly technical world, Ramo pointed out; this world more and more takes scientists and engineers away from teaching and into industry. But the always increasing complexity of this world "makes science seem unattractive to the youngsters," he said.

The mechanized high school would concentrate the identities of its pupils into codes "punched" into bits of metal like "charga-plates." Entering a classroom, the pupil would insert his plate into the machine built into his chair which would automatically record his presence and also give him some access to the mechanical teacher at the head of the room, through a number of push buttons.

Ramo used trigonometry as an example. Without it, there can be no Sputniks and no rockets capable of putting Sputniks into orbits. The mechanical teacher would "enunciate or narrate" its principles with sound movies using "human actors and various and sundry fixed and animated geometrical diagrams." At various times, the students would be required to push buttons, to show their attentiveness, and the machine would ask questions which the students would answer with push buttons.

That machine would be for mass instruction. There would be another machine for individual instruction, one for each pupil. This machine has been adjusted to the special requirements of the individual. Mixed in with these machine lessons would be "a special session with a skilled teacher" who would have complete machine-made records of "weeks of intensive machine operations" to guide him.

Ramo said "a brilliant student could romp through trigonometry in a very small fraction of the course time. A dull student would have to spend more time with the machines." He said the machine principle could be applied to chemistry and other technologies, to English, to foreign languages. Technically those machines could be designed and made on the basis of present knowledge. But they'd be extremely expensive. Indeed, they'd require a new industry and a new technical profession, that of "education engineers."

He made his outline in a recent unpublicized speech to a California educational meeting. It is now being circulated among scientists by Cal Tech. He emphasized that he wasn't urging anything, except to "look ahead." Scientific technology can now blow up the world, he said. That is one alternative unless "the coming crisis in education" is solved. The other is "a robot-control world that consists largely of ignorant and uneducated masses who are slaved to a few individuals who push all the buttons on the machines." Therefore, somehow youngsters must be taught how to push the buttons.

Living Costs Rise to New All-time High

NEW YORK (UP)—Living costs rose to a new all-time high in September for the 13th straight month, the National Industrial Conference Board reported today.

All major groups—except transportation—showed an increase in September over August.

The conference board's index for September stood at 105.3 (1953 equals 100), up 0.2 per cent from August and 2.8 per cent from a year ago.

The board said the month-to-month gain was the smallest for any month since last May.

The board said the purchasing power of the U.S. dollar in September was 95 cents, based on the 1953 dollar being equal to 100 cents. The year-to-year decline was 2.7 cents.

Between August and September, prices of apparel and sundries rose 0.3 per cent, housing 0.2 per cent, and food 0.1 per cent. Transportation costs were unchanged.

Mashed Potatoes Available in Instant Form

Meat and potatoes are compatible friends So dom are they separated from each other although the bond is not as close as it was in earlier days With the trend toward easy and quick evening meals folks have been depending more upon baked potatoes and upon the even more popular mashed potatoes

To be at their best the water after cooking must be forced through a ricer before milk and butter are added and they are beaten to fluffiness There have been attempts to produce a product which would bring quickly to the table mashed potatoes An excellent instant product has recently come to the market in foil wrapped packages each of which supplies enough for about four servings

To get good results the directions on the package must be followed exactly for this fine potato One may make one change and that is increasing the quantity of milk while reducing that of water to some extent These powdered mashed potatoes have been served to a number of different persons without their realizing that they had been prepared from the instant product

In the soup field there are a number of new items These have been added to the line of the soup manufacturer long the leader in the field Turkey noodle chicken vegetable and minestrone are the newcomers Each has an individually good flavor. While the directions on the can call for the addition of water milk may be substituted

When dinner is almost ready to serve put 1½ cups water and ½ teaspoon salt in medium sized saucepan Bring to rolling boil Remove from heat and immediately add ½ cup milk While stirring with fork or wire whip pour in contents of one package of instant mashed potato Beat briskly until potatoes are light and fluffy Add butter and pepper to taste Yield 4 servings

Note: If you prefer softer creamier mashed potatoes beat in a small amount of extra milk

MEAT LOAF

2 tablespoons instant mashed potato
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon onion salt
½ teaspoon celery salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ pounds ground beef
1 egg beaten
1 can 8 ounces tomato sauce
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Combine instant potato salt and other dry seasonings Add meat egg and remaining ingredients and mix well Pack lightly in well-greased 9 x 5 x 3 inch loaf pan Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F) about 45 minutes Yield 6 to 8 servings

Centerpiece Fruit Is Tasty In Desserts and Salads

By EDITH M. BARBER

Chicago welcomed the Food Editors with a spectacular sunset which was viewed from the top of the Equitable Building The decorative note of the large room on the roof where we were received by the California Wine Industry was naturally, grapes

Edith Barber

Shelled grape clusters from the bushes on which the fruit grows spread all on tables as in other parts of the country were hung with small wine bottles in the shape of a grape cluster Grapes of all varieties — red white and blue — graced the tables although Indian corn, pumpkins and other vegetables as well as grapefruit apples and other fruit also appeared

You have probably observed that it is modern custom to serve fruit at a cocktail buffet Sometimes the large fruit is cut in wedges and impaled on toothpicks for dipping into a savory mixture Often an attractive arrangement of fruit including a variety of grapes is used as a centerpiece on the table Guests should be encouraged to enjoy fruits and if grape scissors are supplied, they will realize the fruit is meant to be eaten as well as to be looked at As more will undoubtedly be left over, salad should be planned for serving the next day or later in the week For a main luncheon salad, cream cheese balls may be the accompaniment Any type of French dressing may be chosen The spicy kind, which is sweet on oil and long on wine is very appropriate

SPECIAL FRUIT SALAD

6 ounces cream cheese
Paprika
1 cup diced apple
½ cup halved seeded red grapes
½ cup seeded blue grapes
½ cup stemmed white grapes
Spicy salad dressing
Salad greens

Form cheese into small balls and sprinkle with paprika Mix fruit with spicy salad dressing and arrange with cheese balls on salad greens. Yield 6 servings.

SPICY SALAD DRESSING

½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
½ cup dry wine
2 teaspoons grated onion
1 tablespoon minced celery
1 tablespoon minced sweet pepper
⅛ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons oil

Mix sugar, salt, and paprika Add wine, and stir until well blended Add remaining ingredients with a small piece of ice and beat or shake 1 minute, until thoroughly blended Yield about 1 cup

LEMON JELLY

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
½ cup cold water
2½ cups boiling water
Dash of salt
1 cup sugar
½ cup lemon juice
½ cup orange juice

Soften gelatine in cold water about 5 minutes Add boiling water salt and sugar and stir until dissolved Add fruit juices, strain ing through double thickness of cheesecloth If clear jelly is desired Pour in mold and chill until set Unmold on serving platter and serve with plain or whipped cream or soft custard sauce Yield 6 servings

Use Seasonings And Flavors in Food Preparation

A supply of liquid flavors and seasonings, as well as of spices, allows an individual touch to many dishes prepared Most of the extracts are used in connection with sweets

Wines and liquors and such flavorings as Angostura bitters and vermouth are appropriate for adding a touch to a meat sauce, a soup, or a dessert At the Food Editors Conference two luncheons which featured hearty soups and salads were particularly appreciated when breakfasts and dinners offered so many and such delicious courses

A fish chowder made by the recipe of the famous Bookbinder's of Philadelphia was featured with a salad and garlic bread At another noonday the Tuna Association duplicated a meal which was often served on a fishing boat

One of the favorite party soups is made from dried beans flavored with onion catsup and Angostura bitters A wine-flavored dessert of grapes and grapefruit is seasonable just now

PIRATE BEAN SOUP

2 ½ cups dried pea beans
1 onion, sliced
1 teaspoon bacon fat
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup catsup
1 tablespoon Angostura bitters

Wash beans thoroughly cover with cold water and soak overnight If necessary when ready to cook add more water to make about 4 cups, and simmer for 1 hour Saute onion in bacon fat until golden Add onion salt and pepper to beans and continue simmering for another 2 hours Just before removing from heat add catsup and Angostura bitters Stir well and pour into bowls Yield 6 servings

YOUR FOOD PROBLEM

By Edith M Barber

THE CENTERPIECE OF FRUIT AND VEGETABLES adorning cocktail or dinner buffets can be eaten on the spot or used later in salads desserts or stews

OLD-FASHIONED RICE PUDDING

¼ cup rice
1 quart milk
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon nutmeg

Combine all ingredients and pour in buttered 1½-quart baking dish Bake in very slow oven (250 degrees F) about 12 hours stirring at least 3 times during the first hour to break crust that forms Do not stir during last hour of cooking Chill before serving Yield 6 servings

Children Like Punch and Doughnuts

The celebration of Halloween gives an excuse to decorate the table — and house, in a very gay fashion One may be planning a party for the young folks or for an older group, but one and all enjoy the informality of a Halloween party

In a neighborhood where the old-fashioned practice of "trick or treat" is still carried on have plenty of small candies and perhaps nuts ready when the doorbell rings Some of the bell ringers may be strangers but if they are young people with whom one is acquainted, ask them into the living room to enjoy a cup of pixy punch

With these, offer cookies or small doughnuts which have long been associated with Halloween Instead of the punch, cider may be served If entertaining an older group for the evening, coffee as well as cider should be ready to serve

Another suggestion for refreshments suitable for the date is pumpkin tarts These should be small if they are to be served with a finger-tip meal

PIXY PUNCH

1 cup sugar
3 cups boiling water
18 whole cloves
2 sticks cinnamon
Grated peel of 1 lemon
1 cup lemon juice (about 8 lemons)
6 cups boiling water
Lemon slices

Dissolve sugar in 3 cups boiling water. Add spices and grated peel Boil 15 minutes. Strain. Add lemon juice and 6 cups boiling water and heat just to boiling point Pour into heatproof bowl and garnish with covered lemon slices. Yield. About 2½ quarts.

GRAPES AND GRAPEFRUIT IN WINE

Prepare grapefruit sections Stem seedless white grapes and combine with the grapefruit. Sprinkle lightly with confectioners sugar. Add white or red wine, and let stand ½ to 1 hour to develop flavor Serve garnished with halved seeded red grapes before serving

Woman's Club in President's Reception Here on Monday

The Woman's Club of Fayette City entertained guests from neighboring clubs when it honored the new president, Mrs. George Troth at the President's reception on Monday, October 21, in the club rooms.

In the receiving line with Mrs. Troth were vice-president Mrs. Aland C. Dent, Secretary Mrs. Albert Walton, Treasurer Mrs. Rich and Auther and Parliamentarian Mrs. Wayne Hawker.

Mrs. Troth gave a speech of welcome before presenting the program chairman, Mrs. Vernon Smith. Mrs. Smith introduced Mrs. Reba P. Smith of Bethel Park, a solo dramatist. Appearing in costume of the Elizabethan period, designed by herself, the speaker gave her audience a vivid picture of "England's First Elizabeth".

The semi annual induction of new members was a part of the program for the evening. Mrs. Hawker presented two new members, Mrs. Joseph Kasanko and Mrs. Bevan Freshwater. They were given corsages and welcomed by the president.

Visiting guests were the county president, Mrs. Prince Stone, Connellsville, who also represented The Woman's Culture Club of Connellsville; the County vice-president, Mrs. A. E. Kooser of the Wakefield Woman's Club; Mrs. C. C. Gallagher, president of the Wakefield Club; and Mrs. Robert Crossland, Mothers Study Club, all of Connellsville; Mrs. William Beirworth, president of the Belle Vernon Woman's Club and her guest Mrs. Clyde Lear; Mrs. Allan Carson, and Mrs. Edna Ulsh, Eleanor A. Knox Club, Star Junction; Mrs. Dorothy Arensburg and Mrs. Neva Mastile, Alpheca Club, Brownsville; Mrs. Shelby Ferguson and Mrs. H. R. Zuconni, Tuesday Evening Civic Club, Belle Vernon.

At the conclusion of the program a social hour was enjoyed. The buffet tables, with Mrs. Troth and Mrs. Dent presiding, were decorated with fall flowers.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Willis Johnson, chairman, Mrs. William Grant, Mrs. William Opfar, Mrs. Jack Stockton, Mrs. Thomas Conway, Miss Permelia Baldwin and Mrs. Robert Lincoln.

Board Members Are Elected by Building Assn.

The Fayette City Building Association held its election of board members last Friday at a meeting in the Community Center.

The association is in charge of the Center.

Four new members were elected to the board. They were: Wayne Hawker, Jasper Hare, Leo Valdiserri and Mrs. Richard Auther. A charter member of the board, Mrs. Auther had served in years past.

Serving for one year on the new board are Mrs. Joseph Williams, Mrs. Aland C. Dent, George Hancock, Hawker, James Hamer, Fred Weightman, Robert Premoshis, Jasper Hare, and Edward Shook. Two year members are Dr. Aland C. Dent, LeRoy Gardner, Betty Evans. J. Hilmar Renstrom, Mrs. Jack Stockton, Howard McCrory, Valdiserri, Charles Kuhns, Mrs. LeRoy Gardner, and Mrs. Auther.

The new board will meet on the second Friday of November for reorganization.

Mrs. Mildred Zelenski, recently discharged from the Brownsville Hospital where she was a patient for several weeks, is recuperating at her home in Fayette City. While in the hospital she was the recipient of many cards and flowers from her friends.

Week of Prayer Is Observed by Methodist Church

Week of Prayer and Self Denial will be observed by the Fayette City Methodist Church beginning with a program meeting Friday presented by the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Mrs. Fred Stockton, secretary of Spiritual Life, has planned a program around missions. Mrs. Clyde Wyatt, Mrs. George Roy, Mrs. Alfred Makepeace, and Mrs. Charles Evans will discuss home missions while Mrs. Thomas Marriott and Mrs. Walter Ridgway will speak on foreign missions.

The meeting will be held in the church auditorium and will begin at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Wilbur Evans will be the organist and will present special music.

On Sunday "Quiet Day" will be observed. Sunday School and Church will be held at their usual hours and the church will remain open throughout the day for individual worship. Those worshipping may come and go at their convenience.

Invitations have been sent to all church members to attend. The meetings are open to the general public. Mrs. Ben Holliday and Mrs. John Stimmell are in charge of invitations.

Many Attend Pitt-Army Game

Among the persons attending the Pitt-Army game at West Point last week end were Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Baldwin Sr., Mrs. Ray Ermlich, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Long, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Johnson and Frank Parry.

The group made the trip to the game by both car and train, with several of them staying over the week end in New York City to attend the Giant-Steeler football game on Sunday.

Expensive Quarrel

CHICAGO (UP)—A quarrel over a punched transfer has led to a $10,000 damage suit being filed against the Chicago Transit Authority. Mrs. Bluma Rockman said the angry bus driver told 15 passengers to leave the bus...drove Mrs. Rockman to the terminal... and told other bus drivers not to give her a ride.

Strange Case of Cosmic Rays on Television Tonight

Channels 11 and 6 will present "The Strange Case of the Cosmic Rays" tonight at 9 o'clock. The program, televised by the National Broadcasting Company, is the story of scientists' 50-year-long attempt to track down these rays and determine their characteristics.

Produced by award-winning Hollywood producer Frank Capra, the story has been described as rivaling the best of the "whodunits".

This presentation, third in the Bell System Science Series of Television Programs, stars Hollywood actor Richard Carlson as a fiction writer and Dr Frank Baxter as "Dr. Research".

In spinning their plot, Carlson and Baxter employ cartoon characters and animation by Shamus Culhane, live photography, and some of the most famous pictures in the physical sciences, now shown on television for the first time.

Three master detective story writers — Edgar Allen Poe, Charles Dickens and Feodor Dostoevski — are acted by puppets.

Mrs. DeLotto claimed she suffered severe shock and back injuries March 29, 1956, when she tripped and fell over packages stocked in an aisle at the store.

In the 18th century, so little was known about bird migration that some people believed that birds wintered on the moon.

Have the Nursery All Ready

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

I've got a few words of advice for you expectant mothers and fathers — plan for your infant's arrival well before it's time for him to check in.

Shop early for the nursery furniture you're going to need and you will often save both time and money.

The most important rule to follow when looking for nursery furniture is to buy only what you and the baby will need. Don't buy so much stuff that there won't be room for the baby when he arrives.

Buying quality merchandise also pays off in the long run. After all, you'll want more than one child. Good nursery furniture can provide a lot of usage.

First of all, you are going to need a crib. While some parents prefer to keep a newborn baby in a bassinet or basket, these soon prove too small. You'll soon have to get a crib, anyway.

Make sure the crib you get has at least one side which can be adjusted as far as height is concerned. It'll make it a lot easier to put the baby to bed and to take him out again.

Prevent Backache

Adjustable springs which permit you raise or lower the mattress also will help prevent backaches for mother and father.

At least one side of the crib should be equipped with a plastic teething rail. Once he can stand and begins to cut teeth, your tot will chew on anything. Not only are plastic rails easier to keep clean and sanitary, but they prevent the baby from marking the crib with unsightly teeth marks. Also, as I have pointed out, you'll probably want to use the crib again in the future.

A bath table is almost a necessity in a nursery. It provides a safe, easy way to bathe the baby and, probably and even more important, a handy place to change and dress him.

Whether you will want a chiffrobe or chest of drawers is up to you. Each has certain advantages. If you have room, maybe you'll want to get both.

A chifforobe has drawer space on one side for diapers, blankets, underclothing and the like, and a hanging compartment on the other side for suits, dresses, coats and things you don't want to keep in a drawer.

Of course, if you've got plenty of closet space in your home, a chest of drawers may be all that you need for baby's clothes.

Question and Answer

R. F.: I have heard of a new drug that is being used to treat dandruff. Can you tell me about this?

Answer: A new drug now being used very effectively in treating dandruff and seborrheic dermatitis is selenium sulfide. However, it should be used only under the careful direction of a physician.

Errol Flynn Talks Of Barrymore Role

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Errol Flynn, currently portraying John Barrymore in a new movie, says he doesn't know whether to be happy or outraged when people tell him, "You're perfect for the part."

The flamboyant actor agrees he and the famed profile had a great deal in common.

"We both had boats," Flynn laughed, "and we both made a lot of headlines. Our marriages made news, too.

Lives Not Similar

"But I can't agree that Jack Barrymore's life and my own are similar in any other respects. He was unlucky in his emotional life and destroyed himself. I had a little better luck.

"I found Pat (Wymore), a woman I loved, and who loved me. So my story has a happy ending. Pat never tries to reform me."

Flynn, sitting in his dressing room at Warner Brothers, toyed with the putty on the end of his nose—a gimmick that adds ⅛ of an inch to his own schnozz. It helps create a likeness of the famed Barrymore profile.

Just A Boy Scout

"I knew Jack well," the actor went on. "But I was just a Boy Scout compared to the olympians he used to call his buddies. You might say I was on the fringes of the gang — and sometimes I almost needed a pass to get into their parties.

"Once, though, Jack stopped by my house for an evening of drinking and stayed three weeks. His favorite name for me was 'Navarre.' I never understood why."

Errol Flynn

Flynn stars with Dorothy Malone in "Too Much, Too Soon," the controversial autobiography by Barrymore's daughter, Diana.

"I'm trying to portray Barrymore without imitating him," said Flynn. "It's not easy. He burlesqued himself so much in his later years people could never tell when he was clowning.

Book, Script Accurate

"The book and the script are an accurate portrait of Jack as I knew him. Our movie shows his troubles with women and creditors.

"He had a wonderfully intellectual mind. He never ceased to amaze me with his knowledge about all kinds of subjects.

"I'm trying to play this role the way I think Jack would like it played. When people say I'm a natural for the part all I can say is, 'Thanks a lot.'

"But I think they're wrong. I'm the shy, retiring type myself," he laughed.

Marine TV Hero Moves on

By ROSS CACCAVALE

GALION, Ohio (UP)—The Maine captain who came through the battle of the isolation booth with $64,000 has moved on to a new plateau.

Richard S. McCutchen has turned in his dogtags, become a civilian and gone to work as a salesman.

While a Marine, McCutchen became something of a national hero two years ago when his knowledge of cooking won him the first $64,000 quiz jackpot in broadcasting history. His mental exertions in the isolation booth tantalized millions of television viewers and whetted many an appetite.

Life has changed since then for the 30-year-old ex-Marine.

On Sept. 23, McCutchen started work at Galion, Ohio, as a trainee in sales and advertising for the Perfection Steel Body Co. The firm makes hydraulic equipment and dump bodies.

Field Interests Him

Enthusiastic about his job, McCutchen says the offer he received from company Vice President Herbert T. Cobey was too good to turn down for it presented a challenging opportunity in a field that interested him.

In his first weeks on the job, McCutchen commuted 50 miles daily between Galion and suburban Columbus, where he lived with his wife, Betsy, and three daughters, Sherrill, 7; Anne, 5; and Catherine, 3.

However, he has since found a place in Galion and now plans to buy a home and settle in this community of 10,000.

McCutchen said his success on television played no part in his decision to leave the Marines. When he began appearing on the celebrated quiz show Aug. 16, 1955, he was a naval ROTC instructor at Ohio State University in Columbus.

He recalled that his appearances on the show, which culminated in his triumph on Sept. 13, did little to change his life, except for the phone calls.

Goaded For Bear

"One time I got a call in the middle of the night from a hunter who wanted to know how to prepare bear steaks," he said.

The decision to leave the service was made last August and McCutchen said he did all he could to avoid publicity at the time.

"The services," he said, "are quite concerned about the number of personnel leaving because of more attractive offers from private industry. I don't want to add to their troubles. The Marine Corps has been very good to me."

He added that most of his life has been spent in a military setting. His father is a retired naval captain. McCutchen himself joined the Navy at 17 for five years and then spent eight more years in the Marines.

The former Marine, a native of Long Beach, Calif., said he was very happy with his new career, for it gave him more time to pursue his hobbies of hunting, fishing and, of course, cooking.

But in recent weeks, cooking has been more than a hobby for McCutchen.

His wife fell and broke her leg a few weeks ago, making it necessary for hubby to handle the kitchen chores.

Deaths From Flu On Rise

By UNITED PRESS

Flu fatalities across the nation approached 300 today, boosted by a mounting death toll in four state institutions.

The worst outbreak has claimed 13 lives at the Pennhurst State School for Retarded Children near Philadelphia. The institution counted one new death Wednesday.

Similar flu outbreaks have killed 10 persons each in a state School for Retarded Children at Dixon, Ill., and at a California institution for the retarded. Five persons died at a state school in Rome, N.Y.

Throughout the nation, United Press counted 290 deaths blamed on flu and its complications since last summer when the first case of Asian flu was confirmed in the country.

The toll included New York 62 deaths, Pennsylvania 54, California 30, Michigan 27, Louisiana 21, Illinois 17, Iowa 11, Colorado and Utah 10 each, Ohio and Hawaii 9 each:

Toll By States

Wisconsin 8, Kentucky 6, Indiana and New Jersey 3 each, Connecticut 2, and 1 each in Arizona, Minnesota, Maine, Oklahoma, Oregon, Washington and the District of Columbia.

Illinois state Welfare Director Otto Bettag ordered a ban on visitors at all 25 state schools and state hospitals in an unprecedented action designed to curb the spread of Asian flu and other respiratory diseases.

Bettag said the ruling will remain in effect until all 50,000 inmates at the institutions have been inoculated against the flu. It was the first time in state history that visitors have been barred from all institutions.

Two Colorado state hospitals were placed in isolation after 40 patients were stricken with flu.

Invades Oregon School

The disease invaded a Fairview, Ore., Home for the Mentally Retarded, hitting about 300 inmates.

New cases of the flu across the nation were reported in the thousands, forcing the shutdown of more schools and colleges from coast to coast.

Oregon reported 3,736 new flu cases last week, the largest weekly total since the flu epidemic of 1918. More than 3,000 cases also were reported in Connecticut to bring its total to 65,186.

Scioto County, along the Ohio River in Ohio, reported 26 of its 37 schools closed when absenteeism hit 40 to 50 per cent Wednesday. Four Portsmouth, Ohio, football games were postponed.

All classes were cancelled in Oakland, Me., and all schools in Silt, Vona and Simla, Colo., were closed.

An influenza epidemic in Nebraska forced suspension of classes at University High School in Lincoln and state health officials said the epidemic probably will be confirmed as Asian flu.

Two Pennsylvania colleges, Wilson College at Chambersburg and Elizabethtown College closed down and students were sent home.

Nurses to Gather For State Meeting

Professional nurses from all parts of the state will gather in Pittsburgh next month, for the 53rd annual convention of the Pennsylvania Nurses Association, according to an announcement from Miss Wilda Camery, R. N., president of the organization.

Opening on November 19, the four-day convention will feature meetings and discussions on professional and technical developments in every section of the profession. Election of a president and other officers will climax the convention.

New Anti-histamine Successful

NEW YORK (UP)—Pharmacological science has produced an anti-histamine which works so well in low doses that so far it has caused practically no side-effects in the victims of hay fever, rose fever, hives and allergic rhinitis which is what a lot of people have when they think they have a common cold.

An anti-histamine is a chemical compound which blocks the histamine chemical reactions inside the body which often are at the chemical nub of allergies. There are many kinds of anti-histamines; they are used by allergic people by the tons. All of them cause side effects if taken long enough in big enough doses, big enough to work, that is.

So the lack of side-effects was the central point of Dr. Aaron D. Spielman of the allergy clinic, Beekman - Downtown Hospital, New York, in reporting on what a new experimental antihistamine, which still has its laboratory label "AY-56012," does to people. He tried it in 84 persons suffering from the more commonplace allergies.

He dosed these persons with AY-56012 in amounts which were only fractions of the workable doses of existing antihistamines. Percentagewise he got the same proportion of favorable results on the allergies that the other drugs produced, but just about no side-effects.

The usual side effect of an anti-histamine is drowsiness, sometimes very severe, sometimes quite mild. In the doses that relieve allergies, this side effect will show up in approximately 50 per cent of the people who take them. Spielman reported to the medical society of the state of New York that AY-56012 seemed to produce mild drowsiness in one out of 44 persons.

By and large it was no more nor less effective in the relief of allergic symptoms. Antihistamines are not cures for allergies. Spielman recommended the new one, which will be available for prescription soon as "theruhistin," for use to keep runny noses and hives in check while allergists track down whatever it is which causes them.

Pharmacology is exceedingly complicated to describe because it is the chemistry of drugs and the chemistry of drugs inside people. There is a highly potent antihistamine compound with a name longer than the full name of the Queen of Britain. But it has walloping side effects and can't be used in pristine form.

So by adding and subtracting atoms here and there on its molecule, the pharmacologists made 60 chemical offsprings. The one of the 60 which was given the label of AY-56012 proved to be the one which had the strongest antihistaminic effect without any other effects.

The way you test that (before you try an antihistamine in people) is to isolate guinea pig intestine and put it into a spasm with a histaminic drug. Then you see if your antihistamine will stop those spasms. In a concentration of one part AY-56012 to 55 million parts, the new antihistamine stopped 90 per cent of them. That, any pharmacologist will tell you, is remarkable.

Britons Want More Freedom For the Queen

LONDON (UP)—Britons impressed by Queen Elizabeth's sparkling informality during her American visit were asking today "why can't it happen here?"

For 10 days Elizabeth's subjects have marvelled at transatlantic pictures showing her rubbing elbows with Americans from many walks of life.

The royal tour of America was in sharp contrast to Elizabeth's comings and going in her own country which always seem austere and removed from everyday life.

"If it's good for the Yanks then it should be good for us," the Laborite Daily Herald proclaimed in a front page story.

"The Queen has proved in Canada and America that she can do her job among ordinary people with dignity and charm and without the stupidities of the palace protocol.

"Here, if we must have a monarchy, let us have a free one. Let us sweep away the restrictions! Dust off the Victorian cobwebs.

"Set the Queen free!"

'Hard Sell' Tactics Now in Steel Industry

NEW YORK (UP)—"Hard sell" tactics with old-fashioned doorbell ringing and fast delivery promises are back in the steel market, Iron Age said today.

Steel salesman have to be "johnny-on-the-spot" to hold their own in the easier market, the authoritative trade magazine reported.

The easiness has hit sheets, strip, bars, wire and tin plate and other coated products, the metal-working weekly said. Still holding firm are heavy plates and wide-flange structural beams.

Demand for oil country goods is not so hectic as it once was, but there are still enough orders on the books to keep this product moving at a fast pace for the rest of the year, Iron Age said.

The magazine reported that auto companies still are content to wait and see how their new models will sell. "While their steel inventories are far from robust, they do not plan to commit themselves for heavy tonages until they see which way the wind is blowing."

Iron Age said the scrap market has "really hit the skids." It noted prices were off again this week to the lowest level in more than two years.

Some scrap buyers apparently intend to keep out of the market for the balance of the year, it reported. Others are buying in small lots at lower and lower prices.

Macmillan May Lose Mustache, Paper Claims

MANCHESTER, Egland (UP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was warned today to guard his mustache.

There's a plot to cut it off.

A reader who identified himself only as "underground" wrote to Manchester University's campus newspaper today telling of the plot.

"The plan," he said, "is to kidnap an eminent person when he comes to open the new Union Building next month, and to remove his mustache.

"Having heard details I fear that the plan is very likely to succeed."

The writer said he could not reveal details, and urged the student body to call off the project.

David Rathbone, editor of the student paper, said there was a rumor circulating around the university about the plot but said he could not confirm it.
